2 SHIPS SUNK, ANGRY SWEDEN MAPS ACTION

Plans Early Move to Settle With Germany on Future of Her Sea Trade.

BANKS ON ORE PRODUCTS

Hints Shipments Might Be Withheld From Germany in Retaliation.

(By Associated Press)

COPENHAGEN — Sweden, holding as a basis for argument ore products desired by Germany, was expected by informed Danish circles today to take prompt steps to settle with Berlin the future of her sea trade.

German submarines are reported to have sunk two Swedish and two Finnish ships in less than a week.

The captain of the Silesia, Swedish freighter sunk yesterday, said the submarine which torpedoed his ship apparently was assisted by planes. Crewmen were given 20 minutes to take to lifeboats. They were rescued by another Swedish steamer.

(Three of the four sunken boats were loaded with woodpulp bound for England, shippers said. The nature of the Silesia's cargo was not disclosed. Germany has referred to the cargoes as cellulose, which she said was included in the contraband list.)

NAZIS HEAR PROTESTS

BERLIN —(AP)— German officials took notice today of the reaction aroused in Finland and Sweden by sinkings of Swedish and Finnish ships by outlining again Germany's prize law contraband list.

They mentioned specifically the sinking of three ships which survivors attributed to German submarines. Two were Finnish vessels carrying cellulose and the other was a Swedish ship carrying wood pulp to England.

Authorities asserted that Germany set up an extensive contraband list "only after Great Britain issued one going far beyond the limits of international law."

"Germany was forced, for her own protection, to take countermeasures," one spokesman said.

German submarine commanders are "acting in fulfillment of their duty" if they hold up and sink ships carrying contraband, he added.

"If the cellulose had reached England it would have come back to Germany as explosives," he declared, adding that cellulose is on the contraband list.

Authorities said that certain types of wood are regarded as used for the manufacture of contraband goods.

Officials declined comment on the Swedish intimation that ore shipments would be withheld from Germany as retaliation for the ship sinkings.

FREEDOM ENDS

Marysville Fugitive Arrested, Faces Virginia Charge.

VAN WERT — (AP) — A woman arrested with two men wanted in Virginia on robbery charges was identified today as Virginia Brawdy, who escaped June 19 with three other women from the Ohio Reformatory for Women at Marysville.

In Columbus, Welfare Director Charles L. Sherwood, advised of the capture by Reformatory Supt. Marquerite Reilley, instructed Mrs. Reilley to release the woman to Virginia authorities. Sherwood said he was informed the fugitive was wanted in Winchester, Va., for robbery.

Arrested by Van Wert police yesterday, Miss Brawdy gave the name of Virginia Miller and said she lived in Canton.

LOS ANGELES—(INS)—At least 50 persons were missing and believed to have been drowned, and property damage was placed at more than $1,000,000 today as a 65-mile gale which buffeted the southern California coast Sunday and Monday began to blow itself out.

Warn New Deal 'Pressure' Will Peril Embargo Repeal

Dems See 'Hands Off' Policy Bring Victory

Influential Senators Claim Drive By Roosevelt Aides Will Spoil Chance To Abolish Ban On Arms Sales

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—(UP)—President Roosevelt called in six members of his cabinet this afternoon for a special conference on extraordinary measures in progress in the various departments to preserve the neutrality of the United States.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — Influential senate Democrats today promised victory for President Roosevelt's army embargo repeal plan if executive departments will keep "hands off" the congressional contest.

The United Press was informed the "hands off" advice and assurance of victory had been given department heads. The executive branch, of which Mr. Roosevelt is the chief, is the New Deal citadel and interested senators indicated fear that excessive pressure from that direction might impair the new-found Democratic congressional solidarity.

"This question belongs to congress now, and there is no need for executive interference," said one highly-placed Democratic senator.

He added that deviation from this policy might cost the administration the votes of such senators as Carter Glass (D., Va.) and Walter F. George (D., Ga.), who have led several fights against what they termed executive infringement upon congressional rights.

Once Opposed It.

George, who voted in the senate foreign relations committee last session to postpone neutrality consideration, announced support for the bill drafted by Democratic members of the committee proposing repeal of the arms embargo and substitution of a cash and carry plan for sales to belligerents. The proposed legislation was submitted to the full committee yesterday.

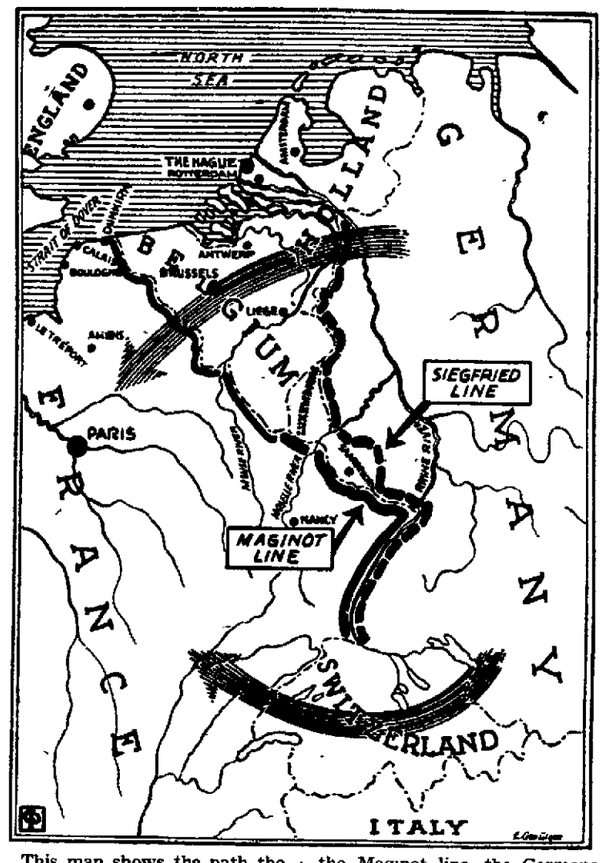
The isolationist bloc, which opposes repeal of the embargo, indicated its six-man "strategy" committee probably would meet today to study the measure.

It was learned that senate leaders have rejected two suggestions that executive officials enter into the fight between administration forces and isolationists over repeal of the arms embargo. These were:

1. A suggestion that Attorney General Frank Murphy make a radio address on the legality of the projected legislation.

2. A suggestion that Secretary of State Cordell Hull send a noted historian before the committee to back up the administration's viewpoint.

Is This Nazi Plan In West?



This map shows the path the Allies believe the Germans will take in their effort to smash the allied forces in the west. Admitting the impregnability of the Maginot line, the Germans will attack through Holland and Belgium in the north and Switzerland in the south, the allies believe, in an effort to flank the line of fortification.

Legion Parades In Rain, Recalling Wartime Days

Vets Ignore Downpour to Carry Out Peace March Down Chicago's Michigan Avenue.

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO—The American Legion marched to a rendezvous with youth today in a cold rain which recalled some of the A. E. F.'s worst days in France and Belgium.

At starting time of the annual parade this morning it had been raining for nearly 10 hours and weather forecasters said there was little prospect of the skies clearing during the day.

The veterans decided, however, to carry out the advance down Michigan avenue.

Thoughts Divided.

The men of Gen. Pershing's army, some of them scarcely realizing how time has touched them, trod the boulevard resolutely, their thoughts divided between memories of 21 years ago and the present war in Europe, which has strengthened their will to keep the nation at peace.

Not since the World war has there been exactly this kind of Legion parade. There is fun abounding. The music and color and throb of at least 87,000 marchers and hundreds of floats are a part of the exuberance of a people free from serious worry.

But amidst the immensity, pageantry and enthusiasm of the parade, the observer seemed to hear accoutrements rattling, feel helmet and rifle rub gritty shoulders

VOTES BONUS

Ashland Firm Gives Employes 5 Per Cent Again.

ASHLAND — Employes of the F. E. Myers and Brothers company, pump manufacturers here, will receive a five per cent bonus on their annual salary this year for the third consecutive year, directors of the firm announced today at the opening of the company's annual sales convention.

The bonus will go to all workers in service four months, except those who have quit or were dismissed since Oct. 1 last year.

Directors of the company also announced that an extra dividend of 50 cents will be paid this year on shares of stock.

HITLER RETURNS

Gets Set For Important Meeting With Chief Aides.

BASLE, SWITZERLAND—(INS)—Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler and all his key ministers returned to Berlin today for a meeting of great importance, it was stated in a dispatch to the Basler National Zeitung.

Momentous decisions, including a new attempt by Hitler to localize the war by proposals to Great Britain and France, are anticipated, the dispatch said.

FIELDS HAPPY

Comedian Pleased as Jury Cuts $10,000 Off Doctor Bill.

RIVERSIDE, Calif. — (AP) — Comedian W. C. Fields is feeling much better. A superior court jury lopped $10,000 off a $12,000 doctor bill.

The district court of appeals held an earlier judgment excessive and ordered a retrial. A jury of ten men and two women agreed with the higher court and Fields, returning a verdict for $2,000.

Boy Burglar Sent To Lancaster, 2 Companions Held

The 15-year-old leader of a gang of boy burglars was sent to the Boys' Industrial school at Lancaster today by Probate Judge C. J. Anderson while two of his companions, 15 and 16 years old, were held in the detention home awaiting final disposition of their cases.

Judge Anderson said the leader of the gang, a pupil at Hedges junior high school, confessed in juvenile court yesterday that he had been involved in the looting of several Mansfield homes and parked cars in the past year.

The boy was on probation from juvenile court where he had been cited at least a half dozen times for theft, truancy and train-riding, records showed.

The other two boys in the custody of the court have better records, but one of them had been warned before by Judge Anderson.

TYPICAL FALL

Overcast Skies to Bring More Rain; Mercury at 52.

Typical fall weather settled over Mansfield today while the first snow of the season fell in the Rocky Mountain region.

Overcast skies which brought light rain this morning kept the thermometer down to 52 degrees at noon, one of the lowest noon figures since last spring. Lowest this morning was 47.

It will be cloudy and cool tonight and Wednesday with occasional showers.

Light snow fell last night in South Dakota. Wyoming and Montana and the mercury fell to 18 above zero at Minot, N. D.

U-BOATS LOSING, CHURCHILL SAYS

Cites Steady Decrease in Ship Losses, Tells of Numerous Attacks on Subs.

LONDON—The British war cabinet announced to parliament today the defensive arming of many merchant ships and the seizure of more German goods since the war started than Great Britain has lost in submarine attacks.

Winston Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, made this disclosure in the house of commons after Prime Minister Chamberlain, in his fourth war report, had announced complete agreement with France on "procedure for coordinating and perfecting" munitions and supplies.

Churchill, after saying the British convoy system now was in full operation and merchant ships all over the world were being armed to fight off submarines and airplanes, declared:

"So far as the submarine is concerned, the British Empire and all its friends in every quarter of the globe will be able to develop their immeasurable latent forces, and their man power can be concentrated in ever-growing intensity on the task we have in mind, in which task we have only to persevere to conquer."

He was cheered loudly on this statement.

"In a short time the immense mercantile marine of the British Empire will be armed," he said. "All guns and equipment are ready at various stations, together with trained gunners to man them and instruct the seamen."

"Our attacks on submarines," he

'Isolationists' Stage Comeback In Journal Poll

Pile Up 4 to 1 Lead Over Cash-and-Carry In Today's Voting.

Results of the third day's balloting in The News-Journal's neutrality poll showed the "isolationists" staging a comeback and piling up a 4 to 1 lead over those citizens who favor the president's "cash and carry" plan.

The vote tabulation today showed 142 votes for the present brand of neutrality, and 36 for repeal of the arms embargo.

The total vote to date is 304 for the present law and 86 for embargo repeal, about 3½ to 1.

Votes were being received today from other towns in the Mansfield district and they came from a cross-section involving all political and business classifications.

In order to vote in the poll it is only necessary to mark the accompanying ballot, sign your name and address and mail it to the Neutrality Editor, News-Journal.

MOSCOW — (U.P.) —German Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop will come to Moscow during the next few days, it was reported reliably here today.

STOCKHOLM — (INS) — Two Soviet demands upon Estonia "having the character of an ultimatum" were responsible for the sudden return of Estonian Foreign Minister Karl Selter from Moscow to Talinn, the Swedish newspaper Dagenyheter reported today.

By JOE ALEX MORRIS
(UP Foreign News Editor)

Soviet Russia's domination of the European diplomatic front threatened today to overshadow the war in the west between Germany and the allied powers.

With the Nazi high command reporting an advance into Warsaw, a desperate hand-to-hand battle appeared to be sealing the doom of the Polish capital after three weeks of siege.

Fighting in the Rhineland remained definitely in the preliminary stages.

These maneuvers on the field of battle were little more than exploratory punches to test weak spots and an effort by the allies to tempt the German high command into a costly counter-offensive against the Maginot line.

But on the diplomatic front, almost all important moves centered around Moscow, which has been reported as likely to have a hand in the next "final" peace gesture by Adolf Hitler. Berlin reported that such a gesture by Germany and possibly Italy was considered likely but there was not the slightest indication that it would find favor in Great Britain or France. More probably it will be a move by Hitler to throw blame for the continued war on the allied powers, if possible.

Hint at Armed Power.

The diplomatic maneuvers originating in Moscow were of a different character. The Soviets have thrown out their feelers to the Baltic states, to Rumania, to Jugoslavia, Bulgaria and Turkey —with a strong hint that Russian diplomacy is backed by military power.

The Baltic states, especially Esthonia, have been alarmed. The

MORE PETITIONS

Election Board Checks Second Batch for Bigelow Plan.

County board of elections workers today were checking the second batch of petitions which would place the Bigelow pension proposal on the November ballot in Ohio.

Seventeen petitions, bearing 717 signatures, were sent here by the secretary of state from a "reserve" supply provided by Herbert S. Bigelow, sponsor of the plan. They must be checked for illegal signatures and returned to Columbus by Friday.

The election board examined the first of the petitions several weeks ago, finding only 599 legal signatures out of 1,836. With the same proportion holding over most of the state, Bigelow's petitions fell several thousand signatures short of enough to place the plan on the ballot.

Names of non-registered persons, those of wives who used their husbands' names, and two or more signatures apparently written by the same person will be ruled out.

Allies Predict Attacks Across Neutral Lands

Observers Convinced Germany Plans To Strike Through Holland, Belgium And Switzerland In Desperate Effort For Quick Victory.

By KENNETH T. DOWNS, INS Staff Correspondent.

PARIS—October 10 was chosen by French military observers today as the date on which Germany will strike—by way of Belgium, Holland and Switzerland—in a desperate effort to mow down French defenses and sweep through to a swift victory for Naziism in Europe by springtime.

During the next two weeks, artillery engagements in the Saar valley and along the Rhine are expected to intensify in violence and scope. But until that time, the Germans will not have troops in sufficient numbers in readiness to launch the tremendous offensive upon which Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler's hopes are based.

During the coming fortnight, the world may therefore expect a continuous stream of communiques such as number 45, issued this morning, which read:

"The enemy's artillery persisted in its activity southeast of Zweibrucken.

"Yesterday, Sept. 25, several combats occurred between our pursuit planes and the enemy's."

Behind this curtain of artillery fire, the Germans concentrated in ever-growing numbers, particularly in the vicinity of Aachen (Aix-La-Chapelle) across the border from Belgium. There is a similar massing of troops north of the Swiss frontier.

There is an almost unanimous conviction in Paris that the Germans will stage a "double envelopment" attack, the right flank sweeping through Belgium and Holland and the left through Switzerland—just as the Germans overran Poland from Germany proper, East Prussia and Slovakia.

According to information obtainable in Paris, it will take the Germans another two weeks to mass sufficient troops and mechanized equipment to lend this gamble in men and machines any chance of success.

However, the attack must be made by Oct. 10 or shortly thereafter because of weather conditions. It will be cutting it pretty finely at that, if the Nazis' phenomenal weather luck should run out and the wet season start a few days early.

The French believe that in the normal course of events—that is, if Germany abided by her pledges to respect neutrality—the Germans would have lost their aerial superiority by springtime, and this would seal their doom. Their one chance, as the French see it, is to strike now with everything they possess in the air and elsewhere in an attempt to destroy Allied air forces and Allied air factories, just as they did in Poland, while the armies stream westward through neutral lands.

Experts say the Germans will need 15 crack divisions, including their best mechanized units, as the barest minimum before making the attempt in the northwest.

Six divisions are held to be the barest minimum in Switzerland, while 40 must be maintained on the Siegfried line and 30 held in reserve in the interior.

The German maximum total is now believed to be about 115 divisions. Such a distribution as the French envisage will not leave many men to watch Poland and Czechoslovakia.

From the foregoing, it can be seen that impending military events are far more important that current hostilities. Even though the French have begun to use their largest mobile guns—those virtual battleship cannon that are mounted on railway carriages—the present activity has not yet developed into major importance.

From the purely military viewpoint, it is scarcely considered yet as serious warfare.

French Artillery Batters Nazi Troops North of Swiss Border

BULLETIN

(By Associated Press)

PARIS—French artillery continued today to hurl shells across the Rhine river in an effort to break up new German troop concentrations reported north of the Swiss border.

Dispatches disclosed continuing violent bombardment of the main Siegfried lines by French heavy guns, which opened on the German fortified zone yesterday.

A general staff communique issued at 10:14 a. m. (4:14 a. m. EST) reported that German batteries likewise were active southeast of Zweibruecken, near the left center of the western front. New combats between French and German fighting planes were noted, but no details were given.

Meanwhile Premier Daladier summoned a meeting of his cabinet this afternoon (5 p. m., 11 a. m. EST) for a general discussion of war problems.

Advices from the front said the combined French and British air

Poland Won't Surrender, Nazis Launch Final Drive On Warsaw

(By Associated Press)

BERLIN—An army communique indicated today German forces had started to storm the defenses of Warsaw after all efforts had failed to convince the Polish commander of the "gruesomeness and uselessness of resistance."

The Polish capital has been besieged since Sept. 8. The final drive to crush Warsaw's resistance was launched yesterday.

In a surprise attack, the communique said the Germans captured Mokotowski fortress and then pushed into the Warsaw suburb of Mokotow. Mokotowski is one of four forts guarding Warsaw from the south and west. The others are Forts Benas, Wolski and Szczesliwicki.

Today's communique said the army in Poland was moving toward the German-Soviet Russian demarcation line, and that in brief fights with Poles along the lower course of the San river 2,000 prisoners were taken by an armored division.

Artillery fire and minor scouting activities were reported on the western front along with the shooting down of six French planes and two captive balloons. This boosted the air toll in the west, according to German figures, to 32 planes and six balloons.

Michigan Fugitives Recaptured; Four Hostages Safe

POLICE SEIZE CONVICTS AS CAR UPSETS

Warden, Deputy Warden, and Two Parole Officers Held by Desperadoes.

(By Associated Press)

MARQUETTE, Mich. — Recaptured after a desperate bid for freedom in which they abducted and held as hostages the warden and three other officials of the Northern Michigan branch prison, four long-term convices faced solitary confinement today.

Less than five hours after they had walked into a meeting of the state parole board and forced the officials to accompany them, their wild flight ended when their 10-year-old car overturned at high speed on a curve near Menominee, Mich.

State police and sheriff's deputies, hot in pursuit, surrounded them before they could recover from the shock of the crash.

Bruised and shaken, but otherwise unharmed by their experience were Warden Marvin L. Coon and Gerald Bush, parole board member. A. Ross Pascoe, chairman of the board, leaped from the speeding car before it overturned and escaped injury, while Deputy Warden William Newcome was released earlier by his captors in a vain effort to stall off pursuit.

Taken Back To Prison.

The prisoners were returned immediately to the scene of their break. They were Joseph M. Mushro, 24, of Detroit and Thomas McCarthy, 27, of Memphis, Tenn., both serving life sentences for a poolroom holdup-murder at Hamtramack, Mich.; Ralph Stearns, 37, of Daggett, Mich., serving life for robbery armed, and John Thompson, 30, alias Eugene Freeman, serving 20 to 30 years for a holdup.

Mingling with prisoners who were scheduled for a appearance before the parole board, the four men entered a meeting in the isolated classification building of the prison early in the afternoon after slugging a guard. One carried what appeared to be an automatic pistol.

They forced Warden Coon to order a car sent around and to instruct guards not to hinder its passage through the prison gates. Guards stood by helplessly as the car sped away, afraid to open fire lest the convicts carry out their threat to kill their hostages.

Hobby Collections On Display In 47 Store Windows

A drop in the temperature last night and today increased interest in fall and winter merchandise so that annual Fall Value week took on new meaning today.

The windows of the 47 merchants who are participating in Fall Value week are attractively arranged with new merchandise and items take in everything that may be used in the home and by the individual.

Adding interest to the merchandise displays are the hobby collections which are being shown in connection with the first anniversary of the Buckeye Hobby club. The hobby show was arranged by the club and the Retail Merchants association.

The firms that are taking part in Fall Value Week and whose windows have hobby collections are the A. and P. store on East Fourth street; Batson's Furniture, Berno's Dress store, Bell Music company, Cochran Paint company, Crafton's Shoe store, Crowe's Shoe store, the Goetz Hardware company, Goldsmith's men's wear, Golden-Russell, Inc., W. The son of a former Mansfielder who is ranked as one of the leading jockeys in the country is a current visitor. He is Herbert Simmons, a nephew of Mrs. Walter C. Lorentz, 37 Arthur avenue, where he is a guest. Simmons, the son of an ex-Mansfielder, Henry Simmons, now of California, rode in the recent Beulah park races in Columbus and is on his way to Arlington park, Chicago. His ambition is to ride in the Kentucky Derby and he has hopes of realizing this within a few years.

A fire alarm Saturday afternoon almost interrupted a honeymoon trip for a Mansfield couple who had to chase a train to Crestline before they caught it. With just time enough to get to the station here, Mr. and Mrs. John Chatlain left their reception party for the depot. The traffic lights went red, however, for the fire alarm and by the time they reached the station the train was just leaving. The bride's brother-in-law, Charles McMullen, drove the couple to Crestline to catch the same train to Chicago.

Squirrel hunters, as well as farmers, welcomed the showers this morning, because the rain makes a moist cushion in the woods that enables the hunter to stalk the game quietly. A number of Mansfielders who went into the woods yesterday, the opening day of the hunting season, said the leaves and weeds were so dry and crackly that the wary squirrels were warned in time to scurry to cover.

It's always a compliment when people you haven't seen for a long time recognize you instantly, for then you know you haven't changed much. Which may be one reason why Aaron Goldsmith was so pleased at a meeting in New York City recently. The Mansfield merchant was approached by a young man he didn't know but who seemed delighted to see him. The "stranger" was the son of Dr. Arthur Hughes, who was formerly pastor of First Presbyterian church here. They left here about six or seven years ago when the young man was still in school. The family now resides in Ridgewood, N. J.

DIES AT AGE 30

Mrs. Norton, Ex-Ashlander, Stricken at Elyria.

ASHLAND—Word was received here today of the death in Elyria of Mrs. Ben F. Norton, 30, the former Virginia Louise Schultz of Ashland. Mrs. Norton died of pneumonia, contracted shortly after the birth of a son on Sept. 12.

The daughter of Mrs. Myrta Schultz of Ashland and a graduate of Ashland college, Mrs. Norton was married here in 1935. Her husband was an elementary school principal in Lorain.

In addition to her husband, her infant son and her mother, Mrs. Norton is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Harry L. Horne of Ashland and Mrs. Alma Horlacher of Philedalphia. Her body was taken to a Lorain mortuary.

Funeral services will be held at the home in Lorain at 1:30 p. m. Wednesday, and the body will be brought to Ashland for burial.

LIQUOR STORE MANAGER DIES

Heart Attack Fatal To George Lisse, 40, At Galion.

GALION — George Lisse, 40, manager of the state liquor store here, died at his home on South Jefferson street this morning of a heart attack. He was taken ill at 8 a. m., and died at 10:30.

Mr. Lisse, who was well known in Galion, was associated with his father, Hugh Lisse, in the Lisse grocery until receiving the liquor store appointment.

Surviving are his wife, the former Blanche Whisler; a daughter, Dorothy Alice, his father, two sisters, Gertrude and Anna, both at home; and three brothers, Robert of Detroit, Paul of Strothers and Albert at home. Mr. Lisse was a membere of the American Legion.

Funeral arrangements had not been completed today.

WIDOW STRICKEN

FREDERICKTOWN — Mrs. Mary R. Cooke, 75, widow of George Cooke, died early today at Marion where she had lived for the past three years.

Mrs. Cooke had resided in Fredericktown practically all her life. The body will be returned here to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Loren Zolman where funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. Thursday with Rev. W. Hilton Perry, pastor of the Presbyterian church, officiating. Burial will be in the Fredericktown cemetery.

HERROLD DEVELOPS NEW RALLY DAY IDEA FOR 32ND YEAR IN ROW

Will G. Herrold, who has a new scheme for promoting Rally day at the South Main Street Evangelical church every year for the past 32 years, proved today that he hasn't run out of ideas.

This time, his novel plan calls for distribution of "magic messages," printed in invisible ink, by 50 visiting teams from the Sunday school.

The message, decorated with pictures of the Seven Dwarfs and the witch with her poisonous apple, sets the attendance goal for Rally day next Sunday at 666 and the offering at $222. The message is blank until it is moistened with water which brings out the printing.

After listing the attendance and offering goals for the 23 classes in the Sunday school, the message adds this advice: "Sorry to say, but no goal is reached with any magic wand. The measure of success depends upon the measure of effort."

Members of the 50 visiting teams will make 1,000 personal calls this week, leaving one of the messages at every home visited. The campaigners ask each person contacted to pledge himself to attend the services Sunday.

The teams will compete for honors for making the most calls, and reports to be submitted during the Sunday services will show the winner.

Herrold, who has been superintendent of the Sunday school for 32 years, has devised a number of novel ideas for increasing attendance. Two years ago, imitation subpoenas were sent out, requesting attendance at the service. Last year, cards were hung on automobile bumpers throughout the city.

3 DAYS TO GO

And 6,000 Drivers Don't Have 1940 Licenses Yet.

With the deadline for driving with 1938-39 licenses only three days away, there were still more than 6,000 operators of motor vehicles who had not purchased the new permits today. The time limit for old licenses is midnight Saturday.

There have been 6,352 private car licenses issued up to today, according to Deputy Registrar Frank Beverstock, and 557 for chauffeurs. Last year the number issued at this time was 4,828, but the sale didn't open until Sept. 15, whereas it opened ten days earlier this year. The normal sale before Oct. 1 is about 13,500.

The Auto club office will remain open from 8 a. m. to 8 p. m. for the remainder of the week, starting Wednesday.

On Monday license plates will go on the half rate for the remainder of the year, Beverstock said, with all auto licenses reduced 50 per cent of their yearly rate.

LAFF-A-DAY

"Promise you'll write every day, darling, even if it's only a little check."

ENTIRE STATE FEELS EFFECTS OF DRY SPELL

Corn Damaged, Soy Bean Yield Far Below Average; Wheat Planting Retarded.

Light rain today in the Mansfield area was expected to facilitate corn-cutting and improve pastures, but it came too late to help soy beans and other farm and fruit crops which have been hard hit by the drought and heat.

Although farmers planted 50 per cent more soy beans this year, the yield was expected to drop far below the average as a result of the dry summer in most sections of the state.

Most of Richland county's corn has been cut, but it was so dry that much of it shattered when handled and it was difficult to shock. The rain today is expected to toughen the stalks and blades and help to preserve them.

Damage to corn is general throughout the state, with the central and southern sections affected most. The early crop matured too quickly, with the fodder ripening before the ears, and late corn was reported to be "chaffy" because the grains have not filled out.

Soy Beans Shrivel.

Farmers have watched their soy bean crop shrivel and dry during the hot weather so that soy beans for hay will be almost useless.

The dry weather also will retard wheat planting, due to get under way this week, and damage the 1940 crop unless there is adequate rain soon after planting, farmers said.

While the Richland county area escaped the worst of the drought, pastures here are nearly dried up and it will require heavy fall rains to revive them, farmers said. In central Ohio, where the drought was more severe, pasture lands have been almost useless for several weeks.

The tomato, apple and potato crops were damaged in most areas, but crop experts have been unable so far to estimate the actual loss. Apples were damaged more by the hot sun than by the lack of rainfall, crop authorities said. The sun burned the fruit, almost to the core in some cases. Despite the damage, the state's apple crop will be larger than last year's, it was said.

The late potato and tomato crops were hardest hit. Potatoes will be smaller, but there will be no crop shortage, W. D. Hilbish, chief of the Ohio Bureau of Markets, predicted.

SET FOR DRIVE

C. of C. Group to Outline Fall Member Campaign Tonight.

Sixty members of the Chamber of Commerce will meet at the Southern hotel tonight for a "kick-off" meeting opening the organization's fall membership drive, John G. Routzon, secretary-manager, announced today.

C. L. VanDereau, president of the Chamber will outline plans for conducting the campaign for new members.

Lester Redding, former chamber president has been named honorary chairman of the drive while Milo Hieber, another past president, has been named active chairman. He succeeds O. C. McCormick who has headed the annual membership drive for several years. Hieber will be assisted by Robert Remy.

Following tonight's meeting a buffet luncheon will be served.

2 PRISON FARM FUGITIVES HELD

One Escaped Last Month, Other Had Been Free for Year.

Two convicts who escaped from the London prison farm have been recaptured, W. F. Armine, acting superintendent, announced today.

Armine, in charge of the farm while Supt. T. C. Jenkins, former Mansfielder is on a three-month leave of absence, said they were Curtis Allen, 27, of Athens county, one of the 14 prisoners who escaped last month, arrested in Nelsonville, and Jack Downs, 32, who was taken into custody at Rockford, Ill.

Allen, sentenced from Muskingum county in 1936 to serve one to seven years for grand larceny, escaped Aug. 29. Downs, who escaped in May, 1938, was serving a similiar term for the robbery of an Akron jewelry store.

FAIR ENOUGH!

New Wage-Hour Boss Has Record Behind Him for Winning Despite Obstacles

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—Col. Phil Fleming of the Army corps of engineers has been appointed administrator of the wages and hours law in place of Elmer F. Andrews, who revealed in the course of his service a belief that he had been chosen to favor his friends. That would be the same Col. Fleming, a small decorous soldier, who, in his term as athletic officer at West Point raised so much money that they had to get him out of there lest the military academy one day come up with all of it.

A major then, Col. Fleming took over just as the era of wonderful nonsense was dawning on a happy land, to serve through the fabulous days of the Notre Dame rivalry and the politico-sporting feud with the Naval academy. This feud the Army won, thanks to his mild but firm insistence and in equal measure to the fact that, in the words of a song which perhaps even he cannot fully remember, his cause was just.

It will be said that Col. Fleming, being an officer of the regular army, is not a politician, and, in the familiar partisan sense of the word, that doubtless do be so. But, in a broader sense, he is, for the man who beat the Naval academy in the tremendous triviality which rattled both services from the Hudson and the Severn to the China station, was a shortender going into the fight, and won off by himself.

The Naval academy, so close to Washington, had an advantage in the important matter of political contacts, and the Army, moreover, was still suffering somewhat from its reputation for snobbish and stiff-necked aloofness, or, as Virginia Gayda would say, its intransigeance.

Nevertheless, in an exchange of diplomatic notes with the naval officers, Major Fleming fixed the Navy into a position from which, in the end, the Naval academy chose to escape at a sacrifice of honor.

The feud was a tiny version of those vast and tragic spats in which nations of red and brown ants come to carnage over the pathway between two blades of grass, arising from the fact that the Army had beaten the Navy in football with a consistency that was disheartening to both schools.

The Navy had adopted a rule limiting the varsity service of midshipment to three years, including any prior service which they might have had in civilian schools. The Army allowed cadets three full years of varsity play regardless of previous experience, which meant that a West Point first-classman might be playing his seventh year against midshipmen whose total football service must not exceed three years.

The Navy even benched some good players who had used up their allotted time, and in this uneven condition and in violation of their treaty demanded that the Army adopt the same restrictions.

Major Fleming refused, and after much diplomatic correspondence and political interference the Naval academy dishonored its contract.

Having come to such a point, it was well that they did break off, for joint boards of Army and Navy officers, even up to star rank, actually were finding themselves too angrily at odds to cooperate fully in the national defense. Public sympathy, perversely and in rude disregard of the question of honor, so precious to both schools, favored the Naval academy, and the ever-adolescent Ham Fish, the congressman whose district includes West Point, obstreperated wildly on the side of the Navy.

Nevertheless, Fleming stood his position, and, like Chamberlain in his more recent repartee with Hitler, pointed to the text of the treaty and the Navy's previous endorsement of the terms and pinned the guilt on the Naval academy.

The Army-Navy series was suspended until the year of the panic, when President Hoover, by a firm executive hint amounting to a command, compelled the schools to play a game in the Yankee stadium for the benefit of the Salvation Army. The Army played as was, which is to say under its own rules, but the duty was compulsory, and the relations between the officers were formal and icy. They raised half a million dollars, which, my impression is, both schools refused to touch any part of, and Grover Whalen got credit for the quiet intrigue which persuaded Mr. Hoover to order the game.

Col. Fleming not only endeared West Point to the public by destroying the Tibetan seclusion of the academy and taking the corps on tour to dress the football shows, but on his departure left many paid-up improvements as monuments to his service and a great bulge of money in the athletic and charity funds of his alma mater.

I think I will put him in the cabinet.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Here's the question you'll be answering, with your dimes and quarters and half-dollars, during the next year:

With a big fuss going on across the water, and the world suffering a sick headache because of it, do you want your movies "neat" or "frilly"? Do you want to read and hear about war, and then—for relaxation and entertainment—go to a movie theater and see a movie about war? Or do you want to use that two to five hours (depending on whether your theater serves double or triple features) to get away from it all, to forget?

Hollywood would give more than a couple of plugged nickels for the answer, served hot and certain, at the moment. Hollywood doesn't know, and it has to guess.

There are going to be war pictures, certainly. Red-hot, from the news angle, is "Thunder-Afloat," story of submarine warfare in the last war. Metro finished it just before the new fracas started. Red-hot, too, is Warner's "Espionage Agent," finished just before President Roosevelt turned over anti-spy activities to the F.B.I. First new (present) war story bought is "Battalion of Death," by John Monk Saunders, dealing with a "suicide organization" of Frenchmen who knew they'd die soon regardless and decide to die for France instead. Paramount got it. Warner's "Fighting 69th," dealing with the New York regiment is still under way, and Twentieth has announced "The Tanganyika Exploit," story of British heroism.

But the music-and-gaiety school of thought has its followers too. Audiences—especially in war countries if their theaters are opened—will want to forget. They'll want music and comedy and pretty girls—and Hollywood is going to give them all three.

It would not be surprising to see the happy ending even more the rule than it is in "normal" times, nor to see a concentration on "human interest" and "heart" stories of the type of "Boys Town," "Four Daughters," the Hardy Family series—all of which serve to remind that, war or no war, the human animal has his decent, emotional side as well as his barbaric.

Action melodrama seems set for a hearty ride too. Violence figures in practically all the "epic" movies, from the wild-westerns like the projected "Virginia City" (sequel to "Dodge City") to the heroic sagas like "The Real Glory" and "Four Feathers" and "The Light That Failed"—all of which are war although not THIS war. C. B. DeMille says he's going ahead with his elaborate "Northwest Canadian Royal Mounted" epic, with locations in at-war Canada, just as though nothing had happened.

But in the end, it's you with your coins who will decide which guesses were right.

And it wouldn't do any good to poll you now, because the movie-makers have to work two to six months in advance with their conjecturing.

And besides, what you think about it now may be just the opposite of what you'll be thinking—with your money at the box-office—half a year from now.

Youth Needs Our Help

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Given health, a roof, enough to eat, and youth should be its own self-starter on the highway to happiness.

It takes so little to make girls and boys happy, surely extra effort, taking thought on the part of parents, is worth while. I'll admit it's a nuisance to help the youngsters give a party, or even to send them to one sometimes, but youth has certain rights and privileges that we oldsters are prone to overlook.

I can never read of the suicide of an adolescent in the papers without a dreadful heart sinking. Where have we failed—we older people—in not being able to put across to youth that today's tragedy is apt to be tomorrow's comedy? Nothing is so dreadful as it seems when the pressure is on.

Dr. Merrill Moore, who has delved exhaustively into human impulses and who is not only an instructor at Harvard but a psychiatrist and a poet as well, has shown how people are turned from suicide by a word spoken at the right time. People, especially young people, are so often like rudderless boats awash in the tide. They need rescuing: someone who understands, someone who like themselves has felt that any way out is better than the intolerable present, can save them.

In the many years I have written this column I have received thousands of letters from unhappy girls and boys—young people who saw no silver linings to their clouds. And when they open their hearts to me and tell me why they are so miserable, their unhappiness seems to me of a kind that could almost always be easily remedied.

Youth cries to youth. To be normal it must have the companionship of its kind. And here is where the strict parent, especially the strict father, fails. He would protect his daughter from every temptation and pitfall by shutting her up. He does not realize that a girl shut away from life does not know how to protect herself.

Churches help to a great extent, by having rooms where young people can meet, prepare a meal, dance or play games. And can't our bridge-playing women do something? Cut out a couple of games a week, and come to the rescue of these youngsters who have so little pleasure in their lives.

HOROSCOPE

For Wednesday, Sept. 27.

A sudden and surprising turn of events may make this an interesting and memorable day, according to an intriguing array of planetary configurations. A particular incident may be concerned with public relations, in which there will be contact with authorities or those of influence and power. Some of these will be found badly disposed, but tact, diplomacy or perhaps "wire-pulling" may be required to win the favor of others.

Those whose birthday it is may be assured of a year of surprising and unprecedented events, possibly in connection with a public office or an assignment of importance. This may be engineered by the good offices of those of prestige and popularity, whose immediate co-operation is vital since hostile factions may arise. These may be placated by finesse or tact rather than direct approach. In all be vigilant, alert to treachery and subtlety. Much happiness is seen.

A child born on this day may be endowed with outstanding gifts of mind and traits of character to fit it for place and power in public standing, either in politics, diplomacy, science, education, philanthropy or religion. Its qualities assure it success and high esteem.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

NOT ALWAYS AN AID

Having the opportunity to make the opening lead is generally considered one of the advantages possessed by the defense to offset the many favoring the declarer.

(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

This is especially true of No Trump contracts for the defenders thus can get one round of their own suit before the enemy starts the establishment of his. But sometimes this works just the other way, the lead handing the declarer on a silver platter a trick he could not otherwise get by any device.

"Your lead gave him an extra trick," said East to West in the post-mortem after this deal. "If you had led the queen instead of a small spade, he would have been held to 4-No Trumps."

South had merely bid 1-No Trump and North had carried it to 3-No Trumps, whereupon West had opened his spade 3. This, of course, rode around to declarer's 10, so that he had no problem to get three tricks in that suit, plus three in hearts, two in diamonds and three in clubs.

Beyond cavil a spade was the logical lead, with West holding an almost sure side entry in the clubs, making it unlikely that his partner could have anything adapted to a better defense. As it happened, a heart lead would have prevented the second overtrick, but East was wrong in thinking the spade Q would have done it. Declarer could have taken this with his A and led the 10. If West ducked, let it go through. If he covered, come up with the K and drop the 9, then get a third spade trick with the 8.

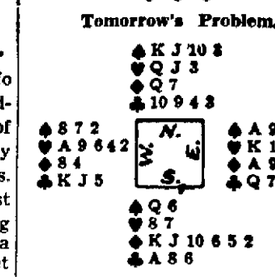
Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

What is the soundest bidding of this deal?

Try cooking your jams and butters in the oven instead of on top of the stove. You'll avoid a lot of sputtering. Put them in a wide kettle or earthenware dish and bake them in a moderately slow oven until they're thick. They'll require less watching than when cooked on top the stove, but stir them a few times with a long-handled wooden spoon.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

I was at Harry Underwood's side, my hands reaching up to his coat lapels, clutching, shakng him.

"Is Father—all right?" I gasped.

"If he were any better, he'd be qualifying for a football team," he said. "And aren't you ashamed of yourself manhandling me this way? Whatever will my wife think?"

"What she always thinks," Lillian drawled, sauntering lazily up to us, "that if you could ever stop clowning, you might amount to something in the years to come. They might elect you dog catcher or select-man or something."

"You might as well come clean," Lillian went on. "I've been cooling my heels here for an eternity. Is it permitted to inquire the reason behind this?"

"It is assuredly permitted," the big man replied, "but I have a sneaking idea that the Chief wants to tell you two about it himself. He stipulated that you both be brought into his room as soon as the men left, but I persuaded him to accept Miss Whitlock's ministrations for a few minutes. He's pretty tired but, surprisingly, not in the least exhausted. She's going to keep him down as long as possible, and then she'll flash us a signal to close in. In the meantime, I suggest that we all sit down and relax."

"I'll second the motion and also amend it," Lillian said. Be a sport, Madge, and tell us what you've just put over on deah old Philip."

She slipped her hand under my arm and led me back to her window seat, her big husband following us. When we were comfortably seated, Lillian looked at me with an expectant, mirthful inquiry.

"All right! Begin to spoon the lentils!" she adjured me. So I told them of Philip Veritzen's decision to start immediate rehearsals of my play, of his plan to bring the cast of the play to the farmhouse for rehearsals if my father were willing. When I had reached that point, I stopped, and Lillian and I looked at her big husband to gauge his reaction to that particular proposal.

"Expense means nothing to that old lad, does it?" he asked. "And as for the convenience of his players, well! I suppose he figures that the honor of belonging to the Veritzen organization is compensation for anything short of skinning alive. But if he wants to start rehearsals immediately, I think he's got hold of a right bright idea."

"Do you think Father will be willing to have him bring the cast here?" I asked.

"That's something you'll have to ask him yourself," he said. "But I don't see why not, most days."

"What about yourself?" Lillian asked. "If you and I go to New York, as your father wishes us to do, are you going to leave Mary to face those rehearsals without you?"

"Indeed, no," I said. "I have just told Mr. Veritzen that when I am absent, Mary will not rehearse."

"'At-a-girl!" Lillian accoladed. But, look! Miss Whitlock is signaling to us. The Chief must want us."

Tangy Dishes Favorites

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

In a pickle as to what to serve now that appetites are getting sharper in pace with the weather? What about piquant dishes which owe their tang to pickles as a basic ingredient? Pickles lend themselves to cooking as well as to garnishing meals.

Baked Lamb and Rice Indienne answers the demand for that something different, sometimes so difficult to fill. It is made with one-fourth cup minced onions, tablespoon butter, one-half teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon curry powder, one teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, three-fourths cup milk, one well-beaten egg, one and one-half cups chopped cooked lamb, one cup cooked rice, one-third cup chopped sweet pickles, two teaspoons minced parsley and lamb gravy. Saute onions in butter until lightly browned. Thoroughly mix salt, pepper, curry powder and Worcestershire sauce. Combine milk and egg and add curry mixture. Combine with remaining ingredients. Turn into buttered casserole or mold. Place in pan of hot water and bake in moderately hot oven (375 deg. F.) for 45 minutes. Serve with sauce made from lamb gravy. Add milk to available gravy to make one and one-half cups, and thicken as necessary. If less than one-half cup gravy is used, flavor with bullion cubes. Yield: six portions

Dried Beef Cheese Fondue, a good luncheon or supper dish, is made with two-ounce jar dried beef (cut in pieces), two tablespoons butter, one-eighth teaspoon dry mustard, dash of pepper, dash of Tabasco sauce, one cup soft bread crumbs, two-thirds cup grated American cheese, one-half cup chopped sweet pickles, two egg yolks, well beaten, and two egg whites, stiffly beaten. Slowly saute dried beef in butter until crisp and brown. Add small amount milk to mustard, blend thoroughly and add to remaining milk. Add pepper and Tabasco sauce. Combine with dried beef, bread crumbs, cheese and pickles. Let stand for 10 minutes. Add egg yolks and fold in egg whites. Pour in buttered baking dish. Set in pan of hot water and bake in 350 deg. F. oven 45 minutes. Yield: Six portions.

Tuna and Vegetable Pie, a nice change from the usual Friday fish, is made with three tablespoons each butter and flour, one and one-half cups milk, one and one-quarter teaspoons salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, one-third cup diced celery, one-half cup diced onions, one-third cup sliced carrots, one-third cup cooked peas, one-third cup coarsely chopped sweet pickles, seven-ounce jar tuna fish (coarsely flaked) and flaky pastry. Melt two tablespoons of the butter in a saucepan, stir in flour, add milk and cook until thickened and smooth, stirring constantly. Add salt and pepper, Saute onions and celery in remaining butter until lightly browned. Add carrots, peas and pickles. Place alternate layers of the vegetable mixture, tuna fish and sauce in buttered baking dish. Cover with pastry rolled one-eighth inch thick, moistening rim with water to make crust adhere. Trim, press down crust and prick with fork. Bake in hot oven (450° F.) fifteen minutes, then reduce heat to moderate (350° F.) and bake fifteen minutes longer. Yield: Six portions.

DELTA THETA TAU HAS REGULAR MEETINGS

Senior Chapter Honors Mrs. Raymond Ness With Post-Nuptial Party; Zeta Rho Group Names Committees.

MRS. RAYMOND NESS was honored with a post-nuptial party given by her sorority sisters in Delta Theta chapter of Delta Theta Tau yesterday evening at the Colonial Guest House on the Wooster road. Mrs. Ness, who now resides in Toledo, was Miss Alvina Wappner of this city before her marriage.

Bridge was the evening's diversion, and Mrs. L. E. Simonis of Galion won the prize, which she presented to the honoree. Luncheon was served at small tables, decorated with bouquets of autumn flowers. The chapter presented Mrs. Ness with a gift of china in honor of the occasion.

The Misses Mildred Angle, Helen Bunn, Virginia Anderson and Mrs. Mildred Adams were in charge of arrangements for last night's affair. The group will meet again next Monday evening with Mrs. L. P. McNeil at the Fairview hotel.

Mrs. John Douglas was named social service chairman, and elected to the nominating committee to assist Miss Catherine Forshee last night when members of Zeta Rho chapter of Delta Theta Tau met with Miss Virginia Stevick, 91 Linden road. The Misses Maxine Coffman and Bette Anderson will serve on the auditing committee.

The Founder's day program will also be conducted by Miss Anderson, and the next meeting will be a social with the Misses Geraldine Locke and June Oberlin in charge. Mrs. Charles Nail, a recent bride, and Miss Mary Lou Elsass, bride-elect, will be honored at the Oct. 9 party.

During the evening the sorority made plans for a bake sale to be held Oct. 7 and a rummage sale for Oct. 21.

Professor Hall Will Speak Here

Prof. James H. Hall, member of the department of history and music criticism of Oberlin Conservatory at Oberlin, will give the first in a series of three winter lectures before the Music Study club Oct. 2, Mrs. George W. Hall announced this morning. Dates of the other talks will be announced later.

The year's program will deal with the study of modern music including Russian, Scandinavian, German, Spanish, French and American.

Further plans for the Federation Middle North district meeting which will be held here Oct. 16 are being made now, Mrs. Hall also announced, and reservations for the dinner are being accepted by Miss Jane Foltz, recording secretary. Applications for membership in the club are being accepted by Miss Vera Smythe, corresponding secretary.

Nuptial Events Major Functions During October

It used to be that June was THE wedding month, but not so any more. Holiday week-ends, no matter what the season, are most popular, and autumn nuptials are forecasting an important and brilliant social season in this city. Looking ahead to weddings set for October we find that the month will be filled with the usual accompanying entertainment.

The only coming marriage on the first day of the month is that of Miss Ellen Marvin and Fuller Dunson. It will be solemnized at 8:30 a. m. at the First United Brethren church.

St. Peter's Catholic church will be a busy place the morning of Oct. 7 for two marriages will be solemnized there. At 8 a. m. Miss Ruth Massa and Herman Kass will exchange their vows, and Miss Isabel Moyer and Edgar H. Weakland will be united in marriage at 9:30 a. m.

October 14 wil witness the nuptials of Miss Dorothy Selby and Jack Davis, and Miss Jeanne Gale and Ralph Lang. The Selby-Davis marriage will be performed at the First Christian church at 2:30 p. m., while the other marriage will be solemnized at St. Peter's Catholic church at 10:30 a. m.

There will also be two marriages the next day with Miss Doris Frye and Merle Mabee marrying at 8:30 a. m. at the First Christian church, and Miss Mary Lou Elsass and James Ford exchanging their vows at the Park Avenue Baptist church in a closed ceremony at 2:30 p. m. The last marriage so far set for next month is that of Miss Anita Louise English and J. Richard Smith. It will be an open ceremony read at the First Methodist church Oct. 21 at 2:30 p. m.

Church Guild Session at Mrs. Roberts' Home

Mrs. Merle Roberts, 274 West Dickson avenue, assisted by Mrs. William Neutzling, entertained members of the United Presbyterian church guild yesterday. Miss Maude Stewart lead the devotions, and the life of Frances Willard was presented as a book review by Mrs. Hugh Rust.

A guest was Mrs. H. E. Witmer, Ashland. The next meeting will be Oct. 23 at the home of Mrs. Harry Senert, 100 Dawson avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Bowie, 437 Park avenue west, have just come back from a vacation in Canada, Sault Ste. Marie and northern Michigan.

Recent Bride to Live in Chicago

The former Miss Josephine Henness is shown above as she appeared just after her marriage to John Chatlain last Saturday morning at the Central Methodist church. She and her husband are now taking a motor trip, and after Oct. 5, they will make their home at 5214 Woodlawn avenue in Chicago, Ill.

Autumn Views Announcement Of Many Recent Marriages

LATE summer and early autumn have been marked by a profusion of announcements of marriages and engagements. Each day's mail brings word of other nuptial events, and today was no exception for this morning Charles Brandt, 94 Ford street, announced the marriage of his step-daughter, Miss Arlene Smith, to Anthony Rupanovic, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Rupanovic, 170 Grace street.

The pair was married at Covington, Ky., at 11:45 a. m. Sept. 23 with Mr. and Mrs. Philip Warga as the only attendants. The recent bride is a graduate of Mansfield Senior high school, and has been employed at the W. T. Grant company, while Mr. Rupanovic is employed at the Tappan Stove company. They will be at home temporarily with Mr. Brandt.

From Merchantsville, N. J., word came today announcing the marriage of Miss Marian F. Warner, former resident of Mansfield and Columbus, and more recently employed in the executive offices of the Board of Home Missions and Church Extension of the Methodist church in Philadelphia, Pa., to Dr. Channing A. Richardson, superintendent of the department of city work of the board.

The ceremony was performed in the Methodist church in Merchantsville, Sept. 23 with Bishop Ernest G. Richardson, resident bishop of the area, officiating. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Winifred Warner, Jersey City, N. J., and Paul J. Howell, Beliot, Wis., was best man.

Mrs. Richardson is the daughter of Mrs. Helen O. Warner and the late Eddy E. Warner. She was born and reared in Mansfield making her home on Marion avenue. She also lived in Columbus for several years and was graduated from Ohio State university.

The marriage of Miss Helen Marie Grasser and Ralph L. Stover was revealed yesterday evening at a dinner party at the home of Mr. Stover's mother, Mrs. Bernice J. Stover, 166 Vennum avenue. The dinner was served buffet style, and the 14 guests learned of the recent nuptials when they discovered tiny scrolls concealed in their sandwiches.

The couple was married on May 29 at the Methodist parsonage in Angola, Ind. Rev. N. E. Smith officiated at the double ring ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Stover will reside temporarily with the bride's mother, Mrs. Helen S. Grasser, 32 Auburn avenue. Both Mr. and Mrs. Stover were educated in the Mansfield public schools and are now employed at the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company.

Mrs. Bissman Hostess To Beta Sigma Phi

Mrs. John Bissman, Park avenue west, opened her home last night to members of Beta Sigma Phi sorority when the group discussed program plans for the current season. Mrs. Charles Frederick, former member of the Ashland chapter, was welcomed into the Mansfield organization.

Refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by Miss Doris Goodenough. Miss Jane Wagner poured. The next meeting of the sorority will be held Oct. 9 with Miss Dorothy Horchler, Lexington avenue road. Miss Dorothea Grimes will be the associate hostess.

AUXILIARY TO GIVE NEW CITIZENS PARTY

Affair Scheduled for Oct. 5; Executive Board In Charge; Group Will Elect Officers at Next Meeting.

THE NEW CLASS of citizens in Mansfield will be the guests of honor Oct. 5 at a party being given by members of the American Legion auxiliary at the home, it was announced today. Members of the executive board will be in charge and R. B. Gardner, department commander, and Mrs. W. L. Beckley, past department president, will be on the program.

Arrangements were made last night when Mrs. Samuel Harkins, vice-president, conducted the meeting, attended by 50 members. Mrs. Herman Hautzenroeder, child welfare and rehabilitation chairman, reported financial aid to one family.

Mrs. Robert W. Jones and Mrs. Earl Ports were appointed to the sick committee for the next two weeks. Mrs. Carl Walker was in charge of the program, and she presented Robert Early, who, accompanied by Olive Jean Hughes, sang three numbers. Mrs. P. C. Maxwell was in charge of the social hour during which cards and games were played. The next regular meeting will be held Oct. 9 at which time officers of the auxiliary will be elected.

D. of U. V. Members Will Attend Conclave

Plans were made last night to attend the district D. of U. V. convention at Galion Oct. 6 when 38 members of the Mary B. Mitchell Tent No. 40 met in the Memorial building. Mrs. Neva Denny, Marie Bonham and Lola Pittinger were appointed in charge of the card party which the organization will sponsor Nov. 13.

The affair will be held at 8 p. m. in the hall. A social hour followed the business meeting which was conducted by Mrs. Essie Mae Miller. Mrs. Jane E. Taylor and her committee were in charge. The next regular session will be Oct. 9 at the Memorial building.

PLAN OPEN HOUSE.

Mr. and Mrs. William Sonner, who will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary Oct. 1, will entertain after 2 o'clock with an open house. Friends and relatives will be received by the pair who were married Oct. 1, 1889.

Hospital Alumnae Group Schedules Fall Dance

Members of the General Hospital Alumnae association and their guests will be entertained at a semi-formal dance Oct. 7 at the Mansfield-Leland hotel, Mrs. Richard L. Maxwell, chairman, announced today. The function will be held from 9 p. m. to 1 a. m. with Tommy Van's orchestra supplying the music.

Mrs. Maxwell is being assisted with arrangements for the fall dance by Mrs. Tom Forrest, Mrs. Harry German and Miss Mary Ellen Spriesterbach.

Miss Marvin to Marry Mr. Dunson Here Oct. 1

Indians Shove Off on Final Road Trip.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—The Indians entrain for Chicago today for a last desperate effort to regain third place. Idle yesterday, the Redskins dropped a game and a half behind the White Sox as the Chicagoans beat the Browns, 4 to 3. The Indians and Sox play a doubleheader tomorrow, with Bob Feller scheduled to pitch one of the games.

IN THE RUHL BOOK

By OSCAR RUHL
News-Journal Sports Editor

FORTUNATELY, the football "wolves" in Mansfield are in the minority.

The majority realizes the size of the task that Paul Snyder inherited when he assumed the professorship of football at Mansfield high school, and it appears willing to give the new mentor time to install his system.

It is true that a defeat such as administered by Massillon might reflect on the ability of a coach and team, but we find that the majority of the critics are persons who did not even see the ball game Saturday.

Those who witnessed the game were disappointed in the performance of the Tygers, and many openly criticized what they believed to be a lack of fighting spirit, but none blamed the size of the defeat on Snyder for a poor job of coaching.

Mansfield was outclassed so thoroughly by Massillon Saturday that only a Maginot line could have halted Coach Paul Brown's powerhouse.

Massillon may not beat another team this season as badly as it trounced the Tygers, but we can't imagine another high school team in Ohio as strong as the Brown entry.

Massillon's Already Building for 1942.

REMEMBER, folks, Massillon has a perfect football system established. Brown could tell you today the probable personnel of his lineup five years from now. His system of development has been built that perfectly in the junior high schools. No college can match the Brown system.

The only school in Ohio which we know boasts of a system similar to Massillon's that is already paying dividends is Sandusky.

Mansfield is forced to compete against this type of football without any training prior to what the candidates obtain after they reach their sophomore years.

Mansfield teams have looked weak and incapable in comparison with Massillon and Sandusky grid products. This city probably boasts of material as good as they have in these two cities, but it is not developed to the extent that it is in Massillon and Sandusky.

This is the chief difference in football as played by Mansfield and as it is presented in Massillon and Sandusky.

There is the spirit to consider, too. Massillon is a football-mad town, more so than Sandusky. Mansfield, apparently, is only mildly interested. But this city will become more conscious of this school activity once it is established on a par with the state powers. Winning teams build up the spirit.

Time Necessary To Install System.

IT WILL take Mansfield several years to develop a system to season raw material through the channels of junior high football, but, eventually, it will be perfected.

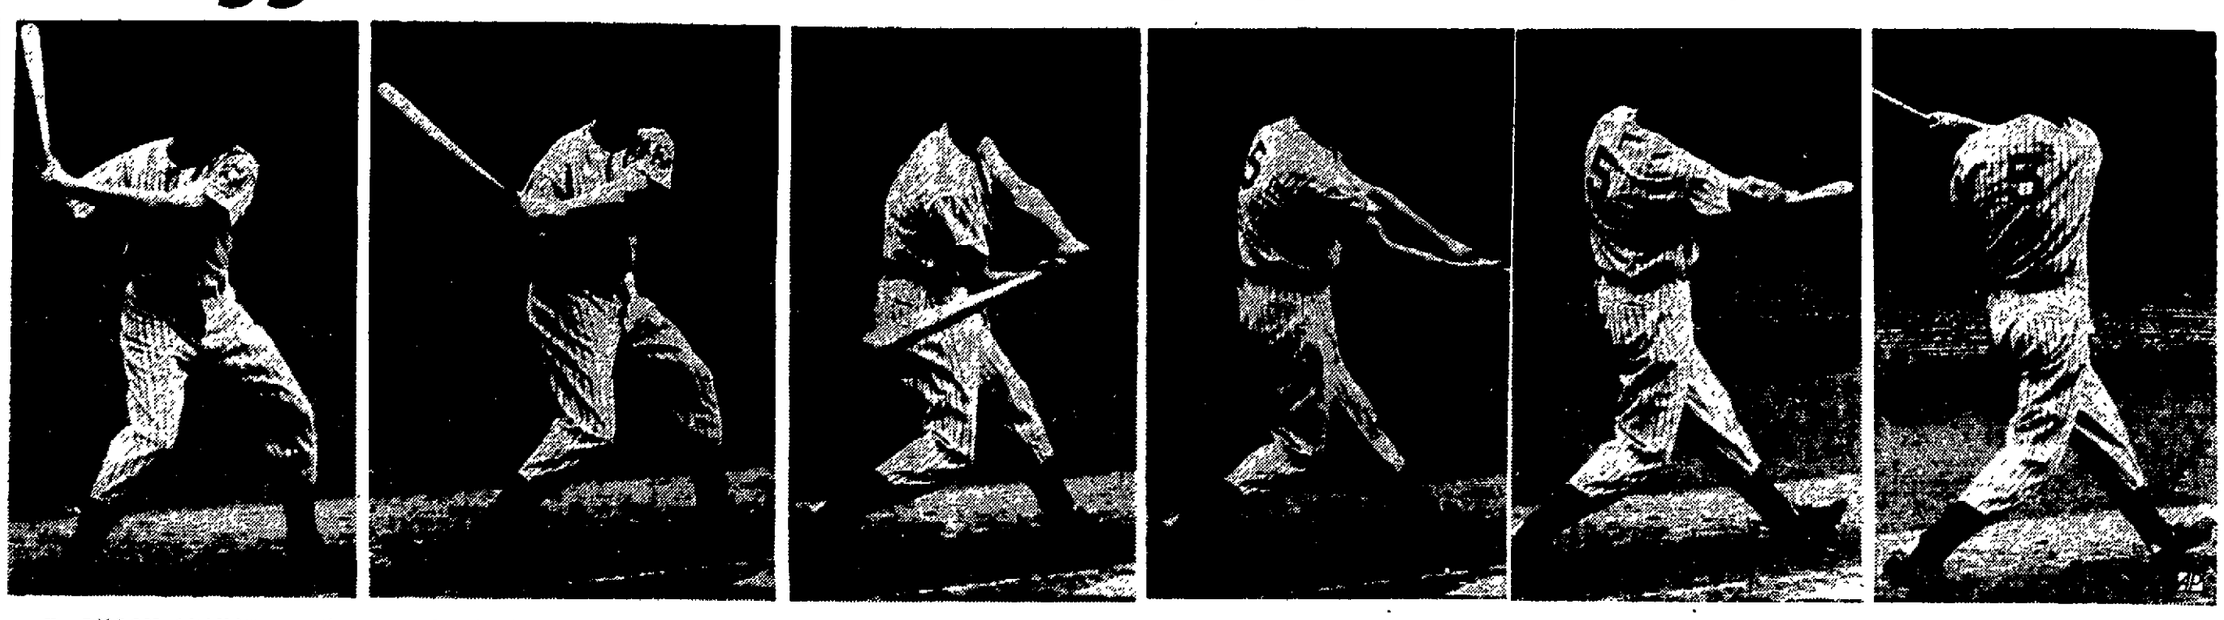
Once the system of development is established, Mansfield can provide the same type of football that is now being offered in Massillon and Sandusky.

Good football material runs in cycles in the majority of schools, but Massillon and Sandusky are exceptions because they do not wait for these periods.

Massillon's Junior high school coaches are developing players right now for the 1942 varsity. Sandusky is doing the same thing on a smaller scale.

In a few more years, Mansfield will be doing the same thing, we hope.

DiMaggio's Best Year At Bat Makes Him No. 1 Series Threat



By DILLON GRAHAM

NEW YORK — (AP) — Before the shuffle even begins it's certain that the Yankees will hold the Ace of Diamonds in their world series duel with the Reds or Cardinals.

Diamonds will be trumps and the top trump of them all is Joseph Paul DiMaggio, New York centerfielder.

Base knocks and runs win ball games and the Nationsl haven't a slugger to match DiMag in getting hits or banging in counters.

The 'Frisco crab fisherman is, by almost popular acclaim, the greatest star in baseball. There isn't a better defensive outfielder in the game. There isn't a flychaser who owns a better arm than Joseph. And none can hit with him.

Rated a hitting star ever since he socked out a triple in his first major league contest in 1936, DiMaggio this year has outdone all his previous feats. For most of the campaign his batting average was above .400. Harry Heilmann, Detroit outfielder, was the last American leaguer to hit above .400. That was in 1923, when he hit .403. DiMaggio's average was .387 on Sept. 21.

DiMag trails only Ted Williams of the Boston Red Sox in runs batted in and Joe has been in fewer games than Ted. DiMag outpaces any of the Nationals. He is among the leaders in runs scored and home runs.

He's the first league batting champion the Yankees have boasted since Lou Gehrig won in 1934.

"I was just luckier this year," is Joe's explanation of a mark some 50 points over his previous big league best.

"The ball just fell for hits more often than in the other years," he says. "I'm swinging in the same groove. I haven't altered my stance. Nothing is changed, so it just must be luck."

DiMaggio uses a heavier bat than most of the big hitters. His bat is 36 inches long and weighs about 38 ounces. Joe's powerful wrists enable him to wait until the last split-second before swinging his bat into the ball.

The DiMag batting average for the last three world series is .301. He hit .346 in 1936, .273 in 1937 and .267 last year.

MINERALITE swingers are beginning to find the range. In the third week of bowling in the Club handicap league at the Meder alleys last night, Harry Frick of the front-running Commercial Managers set the pace with 653. Despite the 187, 234 and 232 games by Frick, the big total helped produce only one win over the Tracy & Avery club.

Finishing with a 257, Henry Michaels blasted out a 648 to lead the Liederkranz club to a high 2858 total and a clean sweep over the J. A. C. club. Duke Weber contributed a 610.

Art Hilborn pounded out a 622 and paced the Optimist club to a 2742 count and a pair of wins over the Richman Clothiers. Jimmy Smith was high with a 613 as the American Legion swept its series with the Schoolmasters.

Classy Card Offered Grid Fans Friday

Madison and Shelby Games Headline Schedule in Vicinity This Week.

A classy card will be offered football followers in this territory this week-end.

Madison, sporting a .500 percentage after two games, runs into another fierce piece of football machinery on the home lot Friday night when it engages Crestline, victor over Galion and Sandusky St. Mary's.

Over in the other end of the county, the host Shelby club and Ashland open N. C. O. conference warfare. The outcome of this game will determine the Whippets' title chances.

Judging from their meeting with a common foe, Shelby will be favored. The Whippets defeated Norwalk in their opener, and Norwalk edged Ashland last week.

Bellville, the only county team without a mar on its record, will go after its third straight victory at Fredericktown Friday afternoon, while Butler will be host to Mt. Gilead. Butler has not only failed to score a victory, but has yet to register a point.

All of the N. C. O. league clubs will be in action this week except Galion, but only one championship game is booked. Bucyrus plays Norwalk, Marion faces Piqua and Mt. Vernon tackles Coshocton Friday. Galion has an open date.

CLAIM ANDREWS

ST. LOUIS—(AP)—Nate Andrews, former pitcher with Columbus of the American Association, was in the St. Louis Browns' camp today after a month with the Cardinals. The righthander came to the Cardinals Aug. 20, and was obtained by the Browns on waivers.

Cats, Fliers Meet In Top College Tilt

Vie in Cleveland Saturday; Ashland Slated to Open at Heidelberg.

COLUMBUS— (NS) —Footballs and tumbling leaves clogged the pungent autumn atmosphere today as Ohio college teams shifted into high gear. They continued preparations for a heavy week-end slate involving 22 games, including 12 intersectional battles and four Ohio conference tilts.

On every front, squads dug in for red hot practice sessions. Restraint was cast aside as every play in the book and some new ones were diligently rehearsed.

Those elevens which have tasted action were drilled in departments where glaring errors were apparent. Those answering the battle cry for the first time were endeavoring to whip together a "mistake proof" offense and defense.

Headlining the week's card was the Dayton-Western Reserve match in Cleveland Saturday. Reputedly two of the strongest teams in the state, the Fliers and Red Cats were ready to offer mid-season football on opening day.

Ohio conference games slated for Saturday were Ashland at Heidelberg; Kenyon at Capital; Ohio Northern at Wooster and Otterbein at Case.

Games Friday night were Rio Grande at Marietta; Youngstown at Ohio Wesleyan; St. Mary's of Texas at Xavier; Alfred Holbrook at Georgetown; Transylvania at Denison.

Wheaton at Akron; Tampa at Cincinnati; Detroit Tech at Toledo; Sunday: John Carroll at St. Francis.

Harvey's Shoes Win Golf Toga

Schadek Takes Postponed Match to Clinch Crown in News-Journal Loop.

TWO points annexed by Tony Schadek in a postponed News-Journal Class B golf league match at Possum Run yesterday spelled the difference between the circuit championship and second place for Harvey's Sample Shoes.

Schadek, Sample Shoes' No. 1 man, chalked up a 3-up victory over Steve Stirtzinger of the Bissman company entry and those points enabled his club to edge the Ohio Public Service team by a single point in the championship battle.

The Shoemen dropped the curtain on the 1939 season with 57 points, while the Servicemen trailed with 56. The new champions succeed the Bissman foursome.

The other three clubs in the first division remained in the berths won in the league's final matches last week. Third place belongs to the Central Fruit outfit, with Bissman's holding the fourth post and The News-Journal entry in fifth place.

Schadek, who smacked out a par 36, dropped the first hole to Stirtzinger, but rallied to even the contest on No. 2. And then came in with a birdie on No. 3 to take a lead he never relinquished. Stirtzinger finished with a 40.

By topping Stirtzinger by four strokes, Schadek gave his club the team medal honors for the second and deciding point. Had Stirtzinger tied for medal yesterday the Sample Shoes and O. P. S. team would have shared first place and forced a playoff for the crown.

* * *

The championship trophy will be presented to the Sample Shoes at the circuit's annual banquet at the Possum Run club at 6 p. m. Thursday.

OBER TO ROLL FIRST BALL IN TIRE LEAGUE

The Mansfield Tire bowling league will open hostilities at 6:30 p. m. Tuesday when 18 teams swing into action in the 1939-40 season. Philip Ober, vice-president of the company, will roll the first ball.

Opening night schedule follows: Curing Room No. 3 vs. Factory Office; Mill Room vs. Main Office No. 2; Shipping Department vs. Tire Room No. 2; Tube Room vs. Tire Room No. 1; Foremen vs. Maintenance; Air Bag vs. iMansfield Service Store; Tire Room vs. Curing Room No. 2; Inspection vs. Columbia Warehouse and Main Office No. 1 vs. Curing Room No. 1.

Walters, Thompson Slated to Face Cardinals in Twin Bill In Cincy Today.

By JOHN FRYE

CINCINNATI — (AP) — Down go the chips and you may know who's the better man when darkness settles over the smoky Mill Creek valley tonight.

Everything is set. The weatherman has promised to hold off on rain despite the agrarian complaints. The field is perfect. The crowd likely 32,000 men, women, and children with but a single thought, is getting in line.

All they have to do now is play the games. The first-place Cincinnati Reds, Bill McKechnie's 20-year wonders who have turned this 150-year-old town upside down, meet the second-place St. Louis Cardinals, just 3½ games behind, in a historic double-header that means more to Cincinnati than any world series.

* * *

And if those Reds, who just two years ago were on the bottom of the ladder, can pack away both of today's game, it's the end and bring on your Yankees.

There are but five games left for both teams after today and a double win would give the Reds a 5½-game lead, which as mathematics goes, would be insuperable, unconquerable, and enough.

McKechnie, scholarly, gruff, and cagey, is depending on one of baseball's great pitchers for one game today, probably the opener. The fellow is William Henry Walters, known to the profession as Bucky, who has won 27, including the last six straight. He is also depending on a yearling who is no lamb, Gene Thompson, who has an 11-5 record.

Manager Ray Blades of the Cards is calling on Curt Davis and Morton Cooper. Curt has beaten the Reds four out of five times. Morton carried Paul Derringer to a 3-all tie last month.

In view of the fact that the burden of proof is on the Cards, whom the Reds ousted from first place way back in May with four straight victories, the views of certain principals and others are pertinent:

Walters—"No one else seemed able to beat the Cards. We've done it before and can do it again."

Blades—"I haven't thought much about it. (Wanna bet, Ray?) It's just another game. No, I won't make any predictions. I'd be a fool to do it."

General Manager Warren C. Giles of the Reds—"We won't have any world series tickets printed up until after the 28th (last day of Card series)."

James J. Carroll, St. Louis betting commissioner — "If Bucky Walters works the first game, 5 to 8, on the Reds and 7 to 5 against the Cards; anybody else 5 to 6 and take your choice."

The strange thing about this set is that people make more of it than the possibility of the world series. Around the barber shops and slippery spoon joints you hear, "I'd rather see the St. Looie games. They'll be more fun."

Automotive Supplies Face Richwood Sunday.

The Automotive Supplies, who defeated the Akron O'Neils, 21 to 0, in their opener last Sunday, will meet the Richwood Merchants at Blue Goose field at 2:30 p. m. Sunday, Business Manager Fred Rizzo announced today. The Richwood club, composed of Marion and Columbus players, has lost only one game in two years. The lone defeat was administered by Portsmouth.

Rizzo said that an attempt will be made to complete the bleachers for Sunday's game.

PARMALEE, RYBA OPEN 'LITTLE WORLD SERIES'

ROCHESTER, N. Y. — (NS) — Bud Parmelee, a veteran righthander, will take the mound tonight against Mike Ryba, another righthander, who won 20 games this season, when the Rochester Red Wings of the International league and the Louisville Colonels of the American association open the 21st "little world series."

Hillis Hume's Touchdown Feats, Massillon's Rout Top Week-End

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS —(AP)— A football coach with a kid who can average a touchdown a game is considered pretty lucky—and that's why Ohio's high school mentors point to Dr. George Wilcox of Alliance as the most fortunate one in their ranks.

For "Doc" has a boy, 17 years old, who has tallied 11 touchdowns in two contests this year. And that total is no "flash in the pan," for the same youngster, Quarterback Hillis Hume, counted 132 points a year ago to finish third among the state's pointgetters.

Hume, who started off with a six-touchdown splurge against Minerva, came up with five more Saturday as the Aviators beat Bellevue—a team defeated but once last year—by 47 to 0. (College coaches note: The word's out that Hume has decided to attend Ohio State.)

While Hume's scintillating personal performance made the other gridiron feats seem rather ordinary by comparison, the week-end did bring forth some noteworthy events.

Ratin[illegible] Junction was mighty Massillon's 7 to 0 conquest of Mansfield to 40th victory against one defeat and a tie for the Tigers since the start of the 1935 campaign and sending the winners a notch nearer their fifth straight mythical state championship.

Massillon bumps into unbeaten Warren at Warren Friday night, and more than 10,000 are expected to sit in on the fray. Upward of 6,000 tickets had been sold Monday. Warren racked up a 7 to 0 win over Cleveland Rhodes a week ago, but showed greatly improved form Friday as Erie (Pa.) academy was beaten 19 to 0.

Portsmouth, another of last year's unbeaten, untied squads, extended its winning streak to 17 games by defeating Akron South 19 to 0.

Fostoria, winner of 10 straight a year ago, jumped its victory string to 18 with a 19 to 0 win over Bucyrus, while Sandusky, tied once in nine attempts in 1938, sent Gene Balconi on a three-touchdown splurge to beat Elyria 26 to 0, the second win of the year for the Blue Streaks. Elyria lost but one of 10 games last season.

Quarterback Elose, 155-pound star of the Dayton Oakwood club, which won seven and tied two a year ago, had a field day against Wilmington. Oakwood converted three intercepted passes and a fumble into four touchdowns, all scored by Elose to win by 26 to 6 although Wilmington had 12 first downs to Oakwood's three.

Another top-notch performance was registered by Russ Rochardt, Marion Harding's star basketball guard. Russ scored a touchdown, intercepted two passes, caught three others and recovered a fumble as Marion beat Delaware Wilis 28 to 6. In that same area Galion was beaten for the first time in two years as Bob Frye scored three touchdowns to give Crestline a 20 to 7 verdict.

Greenfield McClain's record remained unmarred as "Red" Armstrong's squad took advantage of the year's outstanding freak play to beat Frankfort 14 to 7. Greenfield, winner of seven straight last year, led in the final period by 7-0 when Schuster of Frankfort dashed 81 yards for a touchdown to knot the count. Then Frankfort kicked off the wrong way, and Greenfield "backed" over the goal line for the winning touchdown. Coach Earl Miller of Frankfort "squawked" to such an extent that Athletic Commissioner H. R. Townsend has been called in to decide whether the touchdown should count.

Ironton's Chad Norris, All-Ohio back, counted two touchdowns as the southerners beat Columbus South 19 to 6, giving him 24 of the 33 points his team has registered in two winning starts. Over at Steubenville Coach Charles Cartledge launched his 20th year at the helm with a 20 to 0 win over Lancaster, with straight football.

Lyons Pitches 14th Triumph

White Sox Veteran Defeats Brownies, 4 to 3.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Ted Lyons, pitching his 17th year with a losing ball club showed his mettle in the clutch yesterday when he turned on the pressure in the ninth inning and carried the Chicago White Sox through to a 4-3 victory over the St. Louis Browns.

* * *

By going the route Lyons won his 14th triumph and increased the White Sox, third place lead over the idle Indians to a game and a half. Lyons allowed only nine hits and kept them scattered. Eric McNair delivered the big punch — a single in the seventh which drove in two runs.

* * *

That was the lone game played in the American league. In the National league the Giants put on a three-run rally in the ninth to overcome the Boston Bees, 6-5. Billy Jurges started the winning rally with a homer. Hank Danning singled home the tying run and rookie Johnny Lucksot drove in the winning tally.

WILMINGTON, Del.—Joe Cox, 230 Columbia, defeated Nanjo Singh, 218 Calcutta, two of three falls.

Lift Lid With Major Games

Purdue-Notre Dame Tussle Listed This Week.

NEW YORK — (AP) — A dozen years ago, you probably could not have imagined such a thing, but Purdue is playing Notre Dame this week, and Pitt's Golden Panthers are flying west to meet the University of Washington.

In addition, the schedule for September's last week-end lists such games as New York University-Colgate, Temple-Georgetown, Nebraska-Indiana, Duke-Davidson, Rice-Vanderbilt, Southern Methodist- Oklahoma and Texas Christian- U. C. L. A.

This week's program, bringing the first general action despite the 100 or so already played, shows how things have changed since the colleges began paying more attention to the cash customers.

Of the teams listed above only Davidson and Vanderbilt already have played. And Davidson's Wildcats took a 19-14 setback from North Carolina State Saturday, while the Commodores were held to a 13-13 tie by Tennessee Tech last Wednesday.

BOWED TO VANDY

Scarlet and Gray gridders have not lost an opening game since Vanderbilt slipped the Bucks in an upset, 26 to 21, in the 1931 curtain-raiser in Ohio Stadium.

Beats Bettina To Keep Title

Billy Conn to Defend Crown Once More Before Entering Heavyweight Class.

PITTSBURGH — (U.P.) —Satisfied that he now is master of the light heavyweights, handsome Billy Conn planned today to defend his title once more before embarking on a career as a heavyweight fighter

The 21-year-old champion beat back the challenge of Melio Bettina of Beacon, N. Y, last night in 15 furious rounds at Forbes Field and won a unanimous decision that not even the most partisan critic could dispute.

It was a gratifying victory to Conn, who wanted to prove that he was Bettina's superior, a question which some fans and writers disputed when he beat Bettina last July 13 to win the 175-pound championship. The first fight was close, but that was not so of the one last night.

As Conn's handlers worked over him in the dressing room last night, his manager, Johnny Ray, said Conn would meet Gus Lesnevich in Madison Square Garden next Nov. 17 before stacking up against any heavyweight.

In his first title defense, Conn displayed, once again, a deadly left and added to it a right hand wallop that started Bettina toward defeat. A right to the face in the seventh round staggered Bettina, and from then on it was all Conn. He danced around the Italian, jabbed lightning lefts. and crossed solid rights.

The United Press score sheet gave Conn nine rounds, Bettina four, and called two even. Bettina weighed 174½. Conn 172¼.

Promoter Mike Jacobs had anticipated a $75.000 gate. The official figures showed 17,532 paid admission for a gross gate of $67,-892.30 and a net of $58,117.98. Conn received 37½ per cent of the net, Bettina 12½ per cent.

PROUD OF JIMMY

Jimmy Langhurst, Willard, Ohio's gift to the Western Conference football wars, must have set some kind of a sophomore record at Ohio State last fall when he played a total of 348 minutes topping every member on the squad. Langhurst would play 60 minutes in every game if given the chance. His further sophomore accomplishments are also unique in recent Buck grid history; he was selected the most valuable player on the squad by his teammates and he led the Western conference in scoring.

Wolverines, Beaten By Point Last Year, Again Power In Midwestern Football Circles.

By WALTER L. JOHNS
Central Press Sports Editor

MICHIGAN, champions of the west!

Try and tell any loyal Michigan rooter other than that this year and you'll all but lose his, and your, self-control.

For all the signs point to it being the Wolverine's year to howl—and howl loudly enough for all to hear.

Let's take cognizance of the high signs.

Northwestern and Michigan are co-favorites for the Big Ten title. Northwestern plays six conference foes, Michigan five. Each plays four common opponents. But—and mark this—Northwestern's odd opponents are Purdue and Wisconsin, two of the stronger clubs in the loop. Michigan's fifth foe is Chicago, weak as usual.

Michigan is captained by a center, Archie Kodros of Alton, Ill. And that's perfect for, except for 1937, when the team split, Michigan teams with a center as leader have been good ones. Kodros, to add, is being boomed for the All-American team Michigan has had five All-American centers.

Then, there's the coach, Fritz Crisler. Last year, with a soph team, Crisler, a new coach, whipped together a team that lost but one game and the Big Ten title by a point after touchdown. Crisler should improve his handicraft this year.

The Wolverines are a veteran team. And most pleasing of all is the backfield, touted as one of the best, if not "the" best in the United States.

Finally, the sophomore brigade should fill in gaps left by graduates.

The picture, thus painted, is a pretty one. No wonder Michigan fans are agog over their team's chances.

Seventeen lettermen returned, including eight backs. The line lost four regular men, including All-American Guard Ralph Heikkinen.

Crisler's biggest job is the guards and tackles, for herein lie the success of the backs. Then he has to find a fullback to replace Wally Hook and Ed Phillius.

A sophomore, Robert B. Westfall, 19. of Ann Arbor, is being slated to take over the fullback chores and thus complete a backfield which will have Forest Evashevski of Detroit at quarter, Tom Harmon of Gary, Ind., and Paul Kromer of Lorain, O., at the halves. Evashevski, Harmon and Kromer each either won All-American or Big Ten ratings last year, as sophs.

At the tackles Crisler has only two letterman to work with: Bill Smith and Joe Savilla.

Three lettermen were lost at the ends. but returning are Ed Frutig. named on two All-Big Ten teams, and John Nicholson.

Michigan plays Michigan State. Yale and Pennsylvania as non-conference foes this year. The stronger Big Ten foes are met in November, thus giving the Wolverines a chance to prepare for the worst.

Since 1896 Michigan has won five Big Ten titles and tied for eight others. The last was won in 1933.

Drives Marion Car In Race

Bill Chittum to Rein Fast Motor at Fairground.

When the flag drops on the 30 cars entered in the Ohio Racing association's special challenge race at the fairground oval Sunday the hearts of some 200 or 300 Marion racing enthusiasts will ride with Bill Chittum.

They'll be rooting for the Columbus veteran driver because he'll be whipping Mac McCurdy's car around the half-mile track—and Mac has been plenty active in all kinds of sports in and around Marion and is well liked by the fans there.

Owner of a cab company, Mac has always been interested in automobiles, but it was only recently that the racing "bug" bit him. He had a Riley special built to Chittim's specifications, and it is Mac's fond hope that Bill can win on the dirt tracks often enough to put the car in the Indianapolis classic.

And, incidentally. Chittum will be one to watch in Sunday's race. Driving one of the better cars. Bill has finished in the money several times and is known for his fearlessness in sliding into the curves at near top speed.

Bob Gerringer. fresh from a sparkling performance at Springfield, Ill., and Chick Smith, holder of the Indiana state dirt track championship also must be counted among the favorites.

Officials of the association. sponsoring Richland county's first dirt track race in years. expect a large turnout Sunday, and the entry list already includes some of the top men in racing circles.

Nelson Receives $300, Apology for Lost Ball.

READING, Pa.—(INS)—Byron Nelson, the national open golf champion, today had an apology and a money order for $300 which a lost golf ball had cost him in the Hershey open two weeks ago.

Nelson said the $300 money order was enclosed in an anonymous letter from New York sent by a friend of a woman who unwittingly picked up Nelson's ball on the 15th hole. Loss of the ball cost Nelson a two-stroke penalty which put him in fourth place carrying $450 prize money instead of second place and $750.

PAM—A Prisoner! by A. W. Brewerton

THOUGH NOT AIRTIGHT, THE CLOSET WAS CLOSE AND STUFFY AND HOT, AND BY NOW PAM HAD A SPLITTING HEADACHE. -THE AIR WAS BAD !
I JUST CAN'T STAND THIS MUCH LONGER! WONDER WHAT TIME IT IS ? - MUST BE TIME THEY CLOSED THE OFFICE !
SHE KNEW IT MUST BE LATE -LIGHT NO LONGER SEEPED THROUGH THE CRACKS AT THE SIDES AND BENEATH THE DOOR !
I'M SURE NO ONE'S IN THAT OFFICE NOW - HAVENT HEARD A SOUND FOR A LONG TIME !
I'M GOING TO OPEN THE DOOR
I MUST HAVE AIR! --HERE GOES!-
WHY! - IT WON'T OPEN !! -MUST BE ONE OF THE KIND ONLY THE OUTSIDE KNOB TURNS! - I-CAN'T GET OUT! - I'M LOCKED IN!
FRANTICALLY SHE TUGGED AT THE DOOR, THEN BEGAN POUNDING LOUDLY, CALLING FOR HELP! - BUT NO ONE CAME! - - THEN EXHAUSTED, FRIGHTENED, ALMOST SUFFOCATED, SHE SANK TO THE FLOOR !
OH! - I'M A PRISONER - AND NO ONE KNOWS ABOUT IT! - OH, I'LL - I'LL DIE HERE! I'LL - SUFFOCATE!
WILL HELP COME IN TIME ? PAM IS INDEED IN A VERY TIGHT SPOT !

500	88.34	46.46	29.75	21.44

Examine this table. It shows that $4.46 a month repays everything on a $100 loan in 30 months. The faster you pay, the less the total cost. These payments are calculated at Household's new reduced rates of 2% monthly on balances up to $300 and 6% yearly on balances over $300 to $500. These rates are less than legal maximum, and are the same to everyone—one price to all. Only borrowers sign—no endorsers on any loan. No credit inquiries of friends or relatives.

HE MUST BE PUNISHED-
9-26-39
SURE -- VIRTUE MUST TRIUMPH, JILL -- BUT WHEN NICE, HONEST, DECENT LITTLE PEOPLE LIKE US GO LOOKING FOR BIG, BAD WICKED DRAGONS LIKE AXEL, IT CAN BE FATAL -- AND NOT FOR THE DRAGON---
BUT YOU'RE NOT A COWARD, JOHN-
NO - I HOPE I'M NOT -- BUT I ALSO HOPE I'M NOT A COMPLETE IDIOT- AS I SEE IT, OUR FIRST JOB IS TO DECIDE ABOUT ANNIE-
OH, I'VE DECIDED THAT, JOHN- WE'RE GOING TO KEEP HER---
WE ARE? FINE - BUT JUST HOW? IS IT YOUR PLAN TO ADOPT HER?
NO -- THAT WOULD REQUIRE TOO MUCH INVESTIGATION -- MY IDEA IS SIMPLER, AND WOULD CAUSE LESS TALK---

STOCK BROKERS AWAIT ACTION ON NEUTRALITY

Encouraging Domestic News Fails to Tempt Buyers; Rails, Steels Favored.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—The stock market got into arrears today and leading issues slipped off by fractions to around a point.

The opening was fairly fast but activity dwindled. Rails and steels were represented in the majority of the transfers.

Lower were U. S. Steel, Chrysler, Goodyear, Montgomery Ward, Douglas Aircraft, American Telephone, Consolidated Edison, Kennecott and General Electric.

Favored were New York Central, Northern Pacific, Great Northern and American Can.

Brokers said traders lacked interest until they could see some indications of the fate of the Pittman neutrality measure. While domestic news was considered of favorable import, it was not sufficiently bullish to tempt buyers.

Wall Streeters discussed the report on carloadings by W. C. Kendall, chairman of the car service division of the American Association of Railroads, in which he said "it is doubtful if there has ever been the degree of acceleration which has occurred within the past month."

Kendall's statement was made in connection with an open letter to railroads and shippers urging their co-operation in making the maximum use of rolling stock in the present business upswing.

'Strange Man' Hunted In Slaying of Executive's Wife.

NORRISTOWN, Pa.—(AP)— The slaying of the comely young wife of a Philadelphia paper company executive by an intruder in her secluded home sent a prowler scare today through the wooded suburban area around Norristown.

State troopers investigated every "strange man" story in their hunt for the murderer of Mrs. Clara Buchanan, 36, strangled yesterday with her apron and two kitchen towels.

ment was expected in informed quarters.

Rumors, completely without official verification, were to the effect that Germany might release French prisoners taken to date on the western front.

The same rumors had it that Germany believed the soldiers would be good peace propagandists, if they could be convinced the reich feels no animosity toward France.

Official sources contended Germany has no war aims regarding France and that her chief concern is that her opponents may violate the neutrality of Belgium and the Netherlands to attack Germany at a spot unprotected by the Siegfried line.

A man close to the government said in summing up German policy, "we are ready for peace, and we are ready for war, but the initiative for warlike actions must be taken by Germany's opponents."

Germany's submarine warfare continued. Military sources said U-boats were hampering British trade severely, and that British ships, totalling 300,000 tons, had been sunk.

Rumors persisted that Fuehrer Hitler would return to Berlin from Poland today to take part in the funeral for Col. Gen. Baron Werner von Fritsch, former commander-in-chief of the German army reported killed in action before Warsaw last Friday. It was said the fuehrer thereafter might go to the western front.

See Italy, Germany Map 'Final' Peace Bid.

BERLIN —(U.P.)— Germany, in co-operation with Italy, may make a "final" peace move this week, diplomatic quarters reported today.

There seemed little hope among Germans that any peace move could succeed. Nevertheless diplomatic quarters saw evidence that an effort might be made, and within a few days, to end the war on the basis of the "liquidation" of Poland and so prevent the development of big scale warfare in the west and on the sea.

No official confirmation was available for the peace reports. It was noted, however, that the inspired press gave prominence to the view of Premier Benito Mussolini that the war ought to end now, and also was emphasizing every day, the German view that Great Britain and France had nothing to fight for now that Poland had been beaten to its knees.

Adolf Hitler and Joachim von Ribbentrop, his foreign minister, were expected back today from the Polish front.

In Berlin and again in touch with neutral embassies and legations here and with German envoys abroad, Hitler would be able to hold the preliminary conferences and seek the necessary reports before engaging in any diplomatic move.

Ever since the start of the war there has been diplomatic activity between Berlin and Rome, designed apparently to prepare the way for a "final" appeal or warning to the western powers to stop fighting.

Two Ships Sunk, Nation Will Take Up Future of Sea Trade With Germany.

many, two conclusions have been reached in official quarters here:

1. The lists look different but are essentially the same.

2. They correspond very closely to the American contraband list of 1917, and consequently no protest against them will be made by the United States government.

An American ship which carries contraband to a belligerent can be stopped, searched and her cargo seized. There are many precedents under international law which establish that the ship can be seized, too.

If the ship carrying contraband to a belligerent is stopped by a submarine which cannot escort her into port or place a prize crew aboard, she may be sunk after careful provisions are taken for the safety of her crew and passengers.

That leaves little leeway for diplomatic action on the part of this government.

The German list as 13 categories of contraband articles compared to the British five, but the latter include everything contained in the German divisions.

In general, virtually any article could be included under the various categories. The first embraces arms, the second means of transportation, the third means of communication, the fourth money, and the fifth food and clothing. All ingredients or materials or machinery used in their manufacture are included.

U. S. to Propose Peace 'Safety Band' for Western World

PAN-AMERICAN CONFEREES TO DISCUSS PLAN

Program Would Set Up Limits for Belligerent Activity Near Coast of Americas.

(By United Press)

PANAMA CITY, Panama—The United States was expected to ask the Pan-American neutrality conference today to create a "safety band" around the western world to keep it free from Europe's war.

The "safety band" proposal which would forbid foreign belligerent activity within probably 300 miles of the coasts of North and South America, was expected to be coupled with a plan for United States financial aid to economically-strapped neighbors.

While delegates from the American republics maintained secrecy about their activities in executive sessions starting today, the expected United States proposals were said to be planned in line with the speech yesterday of Under Secretary of State Sumner Welles.

Welles appealed for a program to make the western hemisphere a monument to peace, untouched by threats of foreign aggression and more secure economically than it is now. The South and Latin American nations particularly have been hit economically by the European war that has blocked their major foreign trade.

The "safety band" plan, which some sources said may provide for a joint naval patrol of the zone's boundaries, was regarded as one of the most important proposals ever suggested at a Pan-American conference, since it would provide complete safety for intercontinental trade and shipping regardless of the nationality of ships sailing in it.

Many delegates saw it was almost equal in importance to the Monroe doctrine. It would set up a historically unique hemisphere jurisdiction over a specified area of the high seas.

It was learned today that the conference, sitting as a committe of the whole, had voted 20 to 1 against a Mexican proposal to change the usual Pan-American conference procedure of having each republic represented in the guiding committee. The Mexican delegation had suggested a compact committee of five to decide what proposals could be considered.

With the conference buckling down to work on a unanimous demand for neutrality in the European war, delegates anticipated that it would end probably Sept. 30 or Oct. 1 with a powerful united stand.

Welles' speech, which urged the Republics to tell the warring European nations — Germany, France and Britain—in firm terms that they cannot jeopardize this hemisphere's security or commercial rights, was received enthusiastically by all delegates. Many nations regarded it as almost equivalent to a pronouncement by President Roosevelt.

SLASHED WITH CORN KNIFE

LOUDONVILLE — While helping to cut corn at her farm home south of here, Minnie Juergins, 16, accidentally slashed her brother, Lewis, on the left heel with the knife, inflicting a deep wound that almost severed the large cord at the back of his leg.

The boy, 9, was treated by a physician. He had been standing near his sister, watching her work.

TRUSTY ESCAPES

Inmate Flees From Hog Farm at State Reformatory.

Police today had been asked by Supt. Arthur L. Glattke of the Ohio State reformatory to aid in the search for a 20-year-old trusty who fled from the institution grounds yesterday.

The fugitive is Ervin Kittle, Hamilton county, who was reported missing from the hog farm at the 4:30 p. m. "count." Kittle was committed Dec. 17, 1937 to serve from five to 30 years for burglary.

Ted Kwarchak, 106 Lily street, came to Mansfield three months ago from Pennsylvania. He traded in his old car and purchased a new one without transferring the license. He also failed to obtain a driver's license after he had been in the state 30 days.

Yesterday he pleaded guilty in municipal court to a charge of operating a motor vehicle with license plates issued for another and for failure to have a driver's license.

Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch fined him $50 on the first count and $5 on the second charge, suspended all but $10 on the condition that he obtain an operator's permit within 48 hours.

FIRE DESTROYS COUNTY BARNS

Crops, Livestock, Machinery Burn Up In Chatfield and Leesville Districts.

BUCYRUS — Crops, livestock and machinery were destroyed in two barn fires in the Chatfield and Leesville communities. Origin of the fires had not been determined by authorities today. No estimate of damage has been made by the owners of the buildings.

Fire starting in a straw stack at the Harper Ulmer farm, six miles northeast of Bucyrus, spread to a barn and two sheds, destroying all of this summer's crops of wheat and oats.

At the farm of Richard Smith, near Leesville, a large barn and a small barn, two straw stacks, several sows and a manure spreader were destroyed. Part of last year's corn stored in one of the barns was burned. A mule and colt and several farm implements were saved.

GET MARRIAGE LICENSES

BUCYRUS—Four couples were issued marriage licenses in probate court.

A license was issued Saturday to Melvin Dininger, 26, Sycamore township, Wyandot county, and Ada Steinhilber, 22, Tod township.

A license was issued to Clarence J. Tuller, 21, Mansfield, and Virginia E. Schuler, 20, Bucyrus.

Ross Riedel, 27, Texas township, and Emma Steinhilber, 20, obtained a marriage license Saturday.

Application for a license was filed by Benjamin S. Henson, 23, Mansfield, and Lenna M. Heiby, 27, Liberty township, teacher.

HEADS LEGION

CRESTLINE — Arthur F. O'Leary was elected commander of McWhirter Post American Legion at a meeting in the post home Monday evening.

He succeeds L. C. Hipsher, who presided for Monday's meeting. Other officers elected for the year are:

E. C. Stump, vice-commander; W. H. Hoffman, adjutant; O. F. Frengel, finance officer; A. C. Smith, historian; Fred Earner, chaplain; J. R. Daum, sergeant-at-arms; E. T. Remy, Clyde Flockencier and L. C. Hipsher, executive committee and P. C. Frye, service officer.

The new officers will be installed at the next meeting, Oct. 10, and the new commander will name the committee chairman at that time.

DistricT BREVITIES

GALION — The marriage of Olive Virginia Leonard of Pittsburgh, Pa., to Orville Leroy Stinehour, son of Mrs. Grace Stinehour of South Market street, took place Saturday afternoon at the parsonage of the Nazarene church. Rev. James C. Leonard read the marriage service. The couple was attended by Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Stinehour, brother and sister-in-law of the bridegroom.

GALION — Francis McGaffrey was fined $25 and costs and sentenced to 30 days in the county jail after being arrested by local police Saturday afternoon on a charge of shoplifting.

ASHLAND — Decree of divorce has been granted in common pleas court here to Donald E. Heifner from Marcia A. Heifner, after the court adjudged the wife guilty of gross neglect of duty. The court awarded the custody of the couple's minor child to the father.

BUCYRUS — Charles Williams, Nevada, was fined $100 and costs and sentenced to 10 days in the county jail when he pleaded guilty to a charge of drunken driving in Mayor George Dustman's court Monday. Williams was arrested Saturday after his car struck another car at South Sandusky and Rensselaer streets.

ASHLAND — Decree of divorce is sought here in a suit filed by Lloyd Olney against Marian Widdowson Olney, in which the plaintiff charges his wife with gross neglect of duty and extreme cruelty. The plaintiff seeks custody of the couple's minor child. The couple was married Jan. 23, 1938.

SUPREME COURT CONSIDERS SUIT ON REFERENDUM

Test Suit Attorneys Argue New Civil Service Law in Effect in Ohio.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS — Assistant attorneys general told the Ohio supreme court today that Democratic Chairman Arthur L. Limbach had not filed a petition for a referendum on the civil service reorganization act.

Therefore, they argued, the required 90-day waiting period having elapsed without the secretary of state receiving a referendum petition, the law is in effect and Gov. John W. Bricker's appointment of Herbert W. Mitchell to the civil service commission is valid.

In a hearing on a friendly suit of Atty. Gen. Thomas J. Herbert to oust Mitchell on the ground the law was not in effect, Herbert's assistants contended that a purported petition filed by Limbach did not bear the required 144,000 valid signatures, and hence was not valid.

The court took the arguments under advisement. A ruling may be made tomorrow, its first decision day after a summer recess.

The case was fought entirely by the attorney general's office. E. G. Schuessler and Crary Davis, assistants, contended the law was in effect. Another assistant, Perry L. Graham, argued it was not in effect.

Graham declared that Secretary of State Earl H. Griffith, who rejected the petition as insufficient, was required to transmit forthwith its parts to the county election boards, which alone had the authority to determine the sufficiency of the signatures.

Schuessler and Davis conceded that if a petition was filed, it had to be sent to the election boards for checking of signatures. But, they asserted, no legitimate petition, recognizable in law, was filed.

Suppose some filed 1,400 copies of the Police Gazette and called them "referendum petition," Davis said. "Would the secretary of state be required to transmit them to the election boards?"

The secretary of state found that approximately 7,000 signatures filed by Limbach were invalid, largely on the ground they were written in black pencil instead of ink or indelible pencil, that petition blanks were not notarized, and that circulators failed to state whether they were compensated.

"It was obvious on the face that these signatures were not valid," Schuessler said and added that the secretary of state had no authority to accept petition blanks which obviously were worthless.

Graham cited a supreme court decision holding that it was mandatory for the secretary of state to transmit forthwith the petition blanks to the election boards.

DRIVER HANDED JAIL SENTENCE

Sentenced to 30 Days for Failing to Stop After Accident.

William Mason, colored, 285 East First street, lost his driving rights for one year and was sentenced to 30 days in jail this morning when convicted in municipal court on a charge of failing to stop after an accident.

Police, who witnessed the accident, testified that Mason failed to stop yesterday afternoon after his truck collided with a parked machine on East Fifth street at Newman street. They said Mason after colliding with the car, backed away and then drove east on Fifth street nearly three blocks before he could be stopped. The charges were filed by George Mehl, R. D. 6, Mansfield.

WORK STARTED

Woodward Avenue Paving Job Gets Under Way.

Construction work incidental to the paving of Woodward avenue between Marion and Bartley avenues was under way today on the street.

The Mansfield Asphalt Paving company which was awarded the contract on its bid of $8,800 was engaged today in grading the street, Service-Safety Director Earl A. Nist said.

Last week city workmen lowered water lines on the street so the roadway could be cut down to the established grade.

With the grading well under way it is expected that the actual construction of the paving will be started in the next week. The contract calls for completion of the job by Nov. 15.

Specifications provide for a 30-foot asphalt roadway and the construction of combination curbs and gutters from Marion to Bartley avenues.

SINGER TELLS OF ATTACKS BY 'FILM SCOUT,' HELD AS KILLER

(By Associated Press)

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla.—Pretty Jean Bolton testified today Charles Jefferson dropped his role as a movie executive and drew a pistol on a motor car drive which she and a girl friend had hoped would lead to theatrical careers.

"I'm not a movie producer," Miss Bolton quoted him as saying. "This is a kidnaping. I've fooled you as long as I can."

The petite blonde night club singer, who gave her age as 17, appeared as the state's star witness at the first degree murder trial of Jefferson, charged with abducting Miss Bolton and Frances Dunn from Miami, raping and killing Miss Dunn seven weeks ago today and holding Miss Bolton a prisoner three days.

The young witness said she met the man known to her as Jefferson when he came to Miami early in August, ostensibly to find talent for a new theatrical venture.

She agreed to accompany him to West Palm Beach to have pictures taken and arranged for Miss Dunn to go along.

Miss Bolton said Jefferson took her and Miss Dunn in his car towards West Palm Beach, but after about 35 miles, turned off into a palmetto-bordered beach road near Boca Raton and drew the gun.

The witness said she and Miss Dunn were separated and bound with adhesive tape, but were released when they cried from shock and from the intense discomfort of mosquitoes.

That night, she said both girls resisted their captor's advances and he threatened them.

Miss Bolton said she was attacked that night. Later Miss Dunn was taken into the palmetto thicket, from where her cries could be heard. When they returned, she said Frances' eye was bruised and swollen.

Early the next morning Jefferson took Miss Dunn into the thicket again, from which her screams could be heard anew, the witness continued.

It was at this point that the state charges the Dunn girl was slain by Jefferson.

Miss Bolton said she then was led on long walks around the beach and finally fell into an exhausted sleep. Late in the day, she testified, Jefferson woke her and took her to a nearby hotel where they spent the second night.

Bringing her story to a quick conclusion, Miss Bolton said she was released on the third night, walked into Boca Raton and from there called her family in Miami.

CITES TREND

Cook Tells U. S. Bankers of Centralization Move.

Speaking at the annual convention of the American Bankers' association in Seattle, Wash., H. E. Cook, president of the Second National bank at Bucyrus, said today that there is "a definite trend toward centralization in banking and monetary control in the United States."

Cook, who is president of the National Bank Division of the association, cited the measure extending until 1944 the time in which executive officers' loans may be repaid to their banks; the provision of the social security act to include National banks, and the authority given to the banking and currency committee of the senate to conduct a study of the monetary and banking policies of the Federal government.

Fred I. Kent, a director of the Bankers Trust company of New York, called for an immediate halt in excessive governmental spending and regulation of business in an address delivered before the opening session of the 65th annual convention.

"The condition that prevails in the United States today, under which nearly 10,000,000 persons are unemployed and the federal budget is running huge deficits from year to year, must be corrected immediately or we will have to face a very real disaster," he asserted.

Red and white football player emblems were placed on sale at the school yesterday by the student representative council.

The emblems are about two inches deep made of light wood a red M.

NEVER ROBBED

SAN JOSE— (U.P.) —One of the boasts of the police department is that this city has never had a bank holdup. One of the reasons therefor, says Police Chief J. N. Black, is that crack shots of the police department are stationed at all bank corners.

KIWANIS HEAR PHONE OFFICIAL

Ohio Bell Supervisor Speaks on 'Unsung Heroes' at Meeting Thursday.

Noel R. Michell of Akron, division commercial supervisor of the Ohio Bell Telephone company, will address members of the Kiwanis club Thursday noon at their luncheon meeting at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

A former New York Produce exchange trader, Michell will give biographical sketches of characters in history who have made valuable contributions to society and civilization in an address entitled "Unsung Heroes." William J. Locke is program chairman of the meeting.

Names of eight Kiwanis members who have been placed in nomination by the nominating committee to serve on the board of directors for the next two years were announced today.

They are W. C. Mansfield, Carl Damron, Ray Calene, Fred B. Wolfe, S. Glenn Vinson, Fred Cahall, Ira Bronson and William Althouse. They have been recommended to succeed eight members of the board who retire this year.

The seven other members of the board whose terms extend until Dec. 31, 1940, are W. G. Carr, C. W. Fuchs, J. H. Glaesner, J. W. Graham, E. A McFarland, D. N. Roller and O. H. Schettler.

SHENANDOAH—The Shenandoah Grange will hold an inspection at 8 p. m. today at the grange hall. During the meeting the third degree will be exemplified. The grange will hold a birthday party and Booster Night Friday night at the hall.

Times Are Better, Garbage Service Adds Customers

Times are getting better. Fred E. Lingafelter, secretary of the water, sewer and garbage department, reported today. He based his statement on the fact that new customers are being added to the municipal garbage service at the rate of 10 each week.

This is just the reverse of the usual trend for this time of the year, he said. The number entering the service exceeds that of any recent year and is viewed by Lingafelter as sign business conditions generally are improving.

When economic conditions are less favorable, there is a marked decrease in the use of the garbage service and a sharp drop always has been shown in the fall of the year, he said.

Lingafelter added that while 10 to 12 persons are signing up each week for the service, not all are exactly "new" customers. Some have been included on office records in other years.

Records of the garbage department reveal that service is being given to 4,400 customers. This is approximately 100 more than the previous record set during the summer of 1937.

CLASSES OPEN

Settlement Launches Americanization Course Next Week.

Registrations are under way at the Friendly House for citizenship and Americanization classes which get under way next Monday.

The classes, open to adults, will be held twice a week, Monday and Friday, from 7 to 9 p. m. Russell Gimbel, director, said. The winter schedule of classes and clubs for children at the settlement also will begin next Monday.

KIDNEYS MUST REMOVE EXCESS ACIDS
Help 15 Miles of Kidney Tubes Flush Out Poisonous Waste
If you have an excess of acid waste in your blood, your 15 miles of kidney tubes may be over-worked. These tiny filters and tubes are working day and night to help Nature rid your system of poisonous waste.
When functional kidney disorder permits poisonous matter to remain in the blood, you won't feel well. The may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. If you have trouble with frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning, there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.
Kidneys may need help the same as bowels, so ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

POPE PLANS PLEA

VATICAN CITY — (U.P.) — Pope Pius XII is planning to appeal to the nations of Europe to make a stand against the possible spread of atheism following Communist Russia's intervention in Poland, it was learned authoritatively today.

NEWS FLASHES BY Dr. A. Tootikian

Moving Backward

Denunciation by Vatican newspaper, of Russian invasion of Poland as cowardly treachery, indicates growing belief that dictators threaten the world's moral and religious set-up. It is evident that their religion requires the ruthless sacrifice of lives to the ancient gods of war.

SOVIET STEALS WAR SPOTLIGHT

Red Political Maneuvers With Baltic States Adding to Europe's Worries.

sudden airplane flight of the Esthonian foreign minister, Karl Selters, from Moscow to Tallinn yesterday, almost at the hour that the Red army reached the Esthonian frontier, must be fully explained before it will be known whether the Soviets are negotiating for a trade agreement or demanding more far reaching cooperation.

On Russia's southwestern frontier, the Rumanian government officially declared that it was not worried about the intentions of Moscow, although certain precautions admittedly have been taken on the Soviet frontier.

Furthermore, propaganda pamphlets were distributed in Bessarabia, the territory that Rumania took from Russia after the World war. But at Bucharest, the authenticity of Moscow reports that the frontier had been closed was denied and relations with Russia were described as good.

Farther westward, the Red army—moving slowly in its occupation of the 60 per cent of Polish soil allotted to Moscow—was reported moving up close to the frontier of Hungary, which has long been under German domination yet never has gone over to the Nazis. The Hungarians have renewed diplomatic relations with Moscow.

Bulgaria, meanwhile, consented to establishment of an international air line from Moscow to Sofia and began trade negotiations with Russia, reportedly with the purpose of diverting some agricultural supplies which Germany usually takes to Russia.

Turkey's relations with the Soviets, however, appeared to be of greatest importance to the allied powers. French dispatches reported that Moscow was giving the Turkish government formal assurance during the visit of the Turkish foreign minister that Russia would not permit any tampering with the status quo in the Black sea—that is, that the Soviets would prevent Nazi expansion to that area.

Thus, the allied powers believe, there is yet chance that Hitler and Josef V. Stalin will disagree or that the Soviet's bid for dominate power in eastern Europe will at least nullify much of the Nazi design in that area and cut Hitler off from resources on which he is counting to fight a long war in the west.

Rumania Dickers With Both Soviet, Nazis.

(By International News Service)

BUCHAREST—Hopeful of safeguarding her independence and a measure of territorial integrity, Rumania was believed dickering with both Soviet Russia and Germany through diplomatic channels today.

At the same time, the government's relentless campaign of retaliation for the recent Iron Guard assassination of Premier Armand Calinescu proceeded with the arrest and execution of Sergei Herghelegiu, alleged key man of the conspiracy.

The Soviet embassy denied repeated reports of unusual troop movements on the Bessarabian frontier. Bessarabia, formerly part of Soviet Russia, is believed by many to be the next target of Russian expansion.

"The Red army has no reason to increase its soldiers on the Rumanian border," a spokesman said. "Our relations with Rumania are cordial."

The same attitude was taken by Rumanian spokesmen.

Meanwhile, it was understood that announcement would shortly be made of renewal of the German-Rumanian trade agreement. Details were secret, but it was understood German oil purchases would be doubled.

JURY CONVENES

Meets Tomorrow to Hear First of 2 Cases Left on Docket.

With all but two of eight cases scheduled for hearing this week either settled or continued, the county petit jury will convene at 9 a. m. Wednesday to hear a $50,000 personal damage suit.

The jurors, who will re-convene after a long recess, were to have been in session most of the week.

Scheduled for hearing first is an action in which John M. Grubaugh, Mansfield, asks $50,000 for injuries he received in July 1935, when he came in contact with an Ohio Public Service company power line in the village of Rome.

In the only other case on the docket for the week, J. E. Berry seeks a $599 judgment against John F. Kramer as an administrator.

PATROL CHECKS SCHOOL BUSES

Annual Inspection Under Way at Mt. Gilead; Here Tomorrow.

The annual inspection of school buses in Richland and Morrow counties by state highway patrolmen got under way today at Mt. Gilead.

Sixty Morrow county buses were to be checked during the day at the fairgrounds in Mt. Gilead. Inspection of Richland county buses is scheduled for the fairground in Mansfield Wednesday and Thursday. Forty buses will be inspected Wednesday and 35 on Thursday.

Buses are checked for proper lights, brakes, heating and equipment as required by the State Department of Education.

Worried Toledo Studies Plan To Help Her Needy

TOLEDO — (AP) — This worried industrial city of 290,718 today sought some method of raising funds to resume relief shut off since Sept. 15.

Officials hope to get merchants to take deficiency judgments against the city in an attempt to erase $750,000 in back bills that led to the halting of all relief orders. The law provides deficiency judgments as a lien on the revenues of the ensuing year.

More than 200 persons, many of them relief clients, jammed city hall corridors as councilmen studied the deficiency proposal.

Council distributed $38,000 among creditors on a pro rata basis, hoping it would influence merchants to extend more credit. The city already has spent $150,000 from operating funds for relief, periling municipal payrolls for the closing months of the year. Officials said there were 16,560 persons on relief now.

Voters defeated a 1.5-mill tax levy to fihance relief at an election Sept. 6.

LEGION PARADES IN COLD RAIN

raw, hear hobnails sucked up from mud.

The parade, as has been every official act of the 21st national convention, is in part, at least, a medium for getting across the Legion's conviction that war doesn't pay. Placards and banners scattered through downtown Chicago accentuate neutrality, inspired by the Legion's traditional advocacy of peace.

All business and speechmaking of the convention was suspended for the day except for a late meeting of the committee on foreign relations to which is committed the task of drafting a report on the neutrality question.

GROUPS NAMED

Hermit Club President Picks 4 Committees for Year.

Four committees to function during the year were named last night at a meeting of the Hermit club at the Y. M. C. A. by Dean A. Eckert, president.

The committees are: boys' work, W. S. Ross, chairman, Harold Burns, Donald D. Cram, Irl Fisher and Ralph B. Chapman; program, Harvey Bailey, chairman, E. A. Eckert, R. W. Stevens, Lowell Bourns, Norman L. Wolfe, William Bloor, Dr. Harry Knox and N. S. White; social, Glenn Erdenberger, chairman, W. S. Hancock, Russell Gimbel and Herman Balyeat. E. P. Yocum was named general chairman of the two committees.

Welfare and membership committee, M. D. Ward, chairman, Kent Oberlin, George Gaalaas and Dr. F. J. Heringhaus. The meeting marked the opening of fall and winter activities by the group.

100 IN HI-Y

4 Boys' Clubs Organized for New Year; Draw Members.

Mansfield's four Hi-Y groups were organized for the new school year last night at a meeting at the Y. M. C. A., attended by 100 Senior high school boys.

Drawings were held for membership in the four groups with each club allotted 25 boys. The groups will meet every Monday at 7:30 p. m. at the "Y," preceded at 7:10 p. m. by a meeting of the Hi-Y cabinet, made up of officers and advisers of the four clubs.

Advisers named for the four groups are H. D. Bishop, Lionell Smaltz, Walter Mickey, and Harold Mansfield. Names for each club are to be selected at next Monday's meetings.

Officers and advisers will map plans for the winter program at a dinner meeting at 6 p. m. today at the "Y." Reports on the Hi-Y training camp at Camp Nelson Dodd in August will be given by Malcolm Shawk, William Mitchell and Myron Miller.

FRENCH BATTER GERMAN LINES

Artillery Blasts at German Troop Concentrations North of Swiss Border.

forces had played a major role in detecting new disposition of the German troops.

French sources speculated that reported German concentrations near the Swiss border might presage a possible attempt by the Nazis to cross the Rhine below the Black forest, at the extreme southern end of the Maginot line.

These sources said, however, that such an attempt would be hazardous from the German point of view because of heavy French forces stationed near Belfort.

French military men estimated that as a sequel to the lightning occupation of Poland, the Germans might soon be able to mass from 100 to 110 full divisions on the western front.

This would compare, they said, to Germany's World war strength in the west of about 240 divisions. (A German division is composed of approximately 12,000 men.)

The French reported last night that their air forces had defeated a German air force in two major air battles which preceded yesterday's bombardment of the Siegfried line.

The dispatches said the French lost two planes in the engagement, but declared the Germans, though superior in numbers, were believed to have suffered heavier losses. One Nazi plane fell behind the French lines, it was said, and observers reported they saw other German ships plunge to earth in flames.

Sees Allies Bank on 'Slow War' Victory.

By WEBB MILLER
(UP Staff Correspondent)

LONDON—The view of expert neutral observers in London, after nearly four weeks of war, is that Adolf Hitler can not win a long war and Great Britain and France can not win a short one.

The French and British confidently expect to win the war but they believe victory may be precipitated by the crack up of the German home front and not necessarily by an overwhelming victory in the field.

Without claiming inside information of allied plans, it seems to me that the tactics and strategy of the French and British at this time may be defined as pointed toward a war which will surely if slowly force Germany to capitulation.

Naturally later developments might alter these fundamentals, and also this definition of French-British strategy does not mean that the allies intend to pull their punches in military combat.

I am convinced that the British, for instance, are planning and fully intend to send millions of men to the continent to fight. That theory would account for the cautious way in which the war has proceeded so far on the western front. Likewise the theory is borne out by the combats on the diplomatic front, namely the allied insistence that the war is against Hitlerism and Nazi bureaucraty and not against the German masses.

The man in the street expected that while the German army and air force were smashing Poland the French and British would avail themselves of an opportunity for mass attack on Germany's Siegfried line and for terrific air bombardment of Germany's industrial regions in the Ruhr, close to the French frontier and constituting Germany's most vulnerable area.

But the allies are convinced that time plays into their hands. They realize that they possess the preponderance of weight in financial and industrial power and access to raw materials.

The allies are convinced that France is secure from invasion behind her Maginot line, which is as nearly invulnerable as any fortification in history, and that Britain can not be defeated in the field so long as her navy dominates the seas.

Allied leaders apparently feel convinced that the French and British are safe from defeat by Germany. They apparently are proceeding on the assumption that when the German masses realize the hopelessness of a quick military victory over the allies, when the dead weight of the blockade begins to be feld heavily, and when the allied price to end the war is abolition of the Nazi bureaucracy, they will do something about it. That is one reason for the British propaganda pamphlet raids over Germany.

Gen. Von Fritsch Slain By Nazis, Poles Say.

LONDON —(U.P.)— The Warsaw radio announcer quoted German prisoners today that Col. Gen. Werner Von Fritsch, former commander-in-chief of the German army, was assassinated by Nazi secret police and that many of his fellow officers on the Warsaw front had been arrested, because of their outspoken indignation.

The prisoners were said to have reported that Von Fritsch could not possibly have "died" a soldier's death on the battlefield" because they had seen him last Thursday enter a car at Grodzisk, 20 miles from Warsaw, and drive away in a southwesterly direction, away from the front.

The only official detail of Von Fritsch's death was a statement by Col. Gen. Walther Von Brauchitsch, army commander-in-chief, that he had died leading an artillery regiment on patrol.

The Warsaw broadcaster said prisoners, taken yesterday morning by Polish lancers in a sorties on the German lines surrounding Warsaw, had made depositions asserting that Fritsch was "cowardly assassinated by the Gestapo."

The prisoners allegedly told of indignation among German officers over the death of their former commander and hero, and reported that as a result, some of the German officers had been transferred last Friday to the western front and many others had been arrested.

SHELBY PUPILS ELECT COUNCIL, CLASS OFFICERS

High School Groups Organize for New Year; Senior Chosen to Head Council.

SHELBY — Class officers, National Forensic league officials, the Memory Book staff and 21 members of the student council today have been named at Shelby high school, Principal O. H. Schaaf announced. The annual reorganization of the groups is held in the fall of each school year.

A senior, Miss Gloria Caporini, 17, was chosen as chairman of the student council by popular vote of the council representatives. The 21 council representatives are elected by the home rooms at the school.

Others Elected.

The National Forensic league was organized this year under the direction of Leonard Linsenmayer, dramatics and speech teacher at the schools. Officials of the league include Rita Spangler, president; Sue Dowds, treasurer; and Sally Van Horn, secretary.

DRIVE DATE SET

Y. M. C. A. to Open Member Campaign Oct. 16.

The week of Oct. 16 was set last night for the annual Y. M. C. A. membership drive at a meeting of the membership committee at the "Y."

The membership drive will be preceded by a two-week renewal campaign to begin next Monday. During this period the committee will make an effort to renew all memberships that expire during the month of October.

Chester Schultz was appointed publicity chairman for the drive. A general chairman and other committee members are to be named by Robert Remy, chairman of the "Y" membership committee, at a meeting scheduled for next Monday at the "Y."

GIRL'S KILLER?

Suspect Held In Slaying of N. Y. Schoolgirl, 13.

PENN YAN, N. Y.—(AP)—Authorities planned today arraignment of a suspect in the slaying of 13-year-old Evelyn Reed, Penn Yan Junior high school honor student.

The girl's body was found yesterday sprawled against a moss-covered stump 12 miles from her home. An hour later State Police Inspector Eugene Hoyt said a man had been arrested in connection with the crime.

IT'S EXAM DAY

69 Applicants for Citizenship Before Court Today.

Today was examination day for 69 men and women who went before Judge C. H. Huston in common pleas court to show they have learned enough about the United States and its laws to become naturalized citizens.

In the group of applicants were natives of 13 European and Asiatic countries and Canada, including 10 from Germany and three from Poland.

Each applicant was required to bring two witnesses to tell the court that the applicant's behavior has been satisfactory since they came to county communities.

Assisting during the hearings today were L. E. Fox of Youngstown, a naturalization officer; Miss Henrietta Frank, who conducts citizenship classes for the applicants; Deputy County Clerk Norman P. Henry, and C. A. McKinley, court assignment clerk, who swore in the applicants as they came before Judge Huston.

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 26, 1939.

It sometimes seems that, after all, Nature had better ideas as to the proper color for finger nails.

Disregarding the war furore, the University of Missouri proudly announces propagation of a seedless watermelon.

Between a changed Thanksgiving and the European mixup, calendar manufacturers and map makers seem to have much in common.

Hobby Displays In Store Windows

MANSFIELD hobbyists are gaining more than ordinary attention this week as a result of numerous attractive "hobby" displays in store windows, as a part of Fall Value week, sponsored by the Retail Merchants association.

Encouraged by local industrial activity, and a general upswing in business, Mansfield merchants have stocked liberally of appealing fall and winter merchandise and their show windows this week will reflect the completeness of all lines—wearing apparel for all members of the family, footwear, accessories, jewelry, furniture, home furnishings and household appliances—in fact everything required to meet the needs of residents of Mansfield and this entire north-central Ohio trading area.

Hobby displays also cover a wide range of varied interests and deserve unhurried inspection. Growth of "hobby" interest in Mansfield within the past few years may be attributed in large part to several shows that have been held at the Y. M. C. A., and to the activity of a group which has been organized into the Buckeye Hobby club.

Tax Exemption For Home-Owners

ANOTHER adventure into idealism, which seems somewhat in advance of the times, is a proposal to exempt from taxation in Ohio all homes appraised at $5,000 or less.

A newly organized Ohio Tax-Free Homes association is sponsoring this idea and announces it will conduct a campaign to secure either a law or a constitutional amendment to relieve the small home owner from taxes thereon.

Several states have already taken action along this line, although the exemptions seem to apply only to assessments for state purposes rather than to the entire tax bill.

The thought behind the idea of relieving small home owners of paying taxes on the dwelling they occupy is a worthy one, as taxes sometimes place a heavy burden on older folks who have acquired a little home but who are without sufficient income or savings to meet living costs and pay taxes and upkeep costs.

In the confusion of various pension plans and such proposals as this, however, the practicability of further immediate experiments in so-called social security may be doubted by those who realize that elimination of taxes from one source necessitates replacement from other sources.

There is also a question as to whether the proposed exemption from taxation, if finally adopted, should apply to properties appraised as high as $5,000 or should affect only the first $3,000 of valuation, as has previously been considered.

In any event, this is a matter that deserves serious consideration and should not be jumped at on account of glowing presentation by its proponents.

You are never really well acquainted with a man until you know about his hobby.

Real Germany Will Be Revived

MANY hope that the present European war, and the strong feeling aroused against Hitler and his party, will not result in any American ban on German culture. German music, literature and science are still great, in spite of the blight that the Nazis have brought upon them. German scholarship and art and the old amenities of German life may revive in happier times. These are things with which the outer world has no quarrel.

The superintendent of schools in New York has taken a wise stand in announcing that, whatever may happen abroad, he intends to continue encouraging the study of the German language in America. We need to remind ourselves continually, he says, that the real Germany is not represented by Hitlerism. The Germany of the story books, of the poets and painters and composers and scientists, will again come back. The German language is the passport to understanding of the real genius of the German people.

One expert contends that an unruly child can be quieted by brushing his hair—which at least conforms to an older idea of using a hair brush.

Bicycle Touring Finds Favor

MANY Americans have made bicycle tours of England or countries on the continent. At home, however, they use bikes for local transportation only. A distinguished foreign scientist, Dr. Sydney Chapman, has now made a bicycle tour from Toronto, Canada, to Washington, D. C.

Dr. Chapman heads the English delegation to the meeting of the International Union of Geodesy and Geophysics at Washington. While some of his fellow-scientists, unaware of his plans, thought he was lost, the bicycler was "having a wonderful time" pedalling his way through parts of New England, New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware and Maryland.

It would be dangerous, no doubt, to have a great influx of bicycles on highways all over the country, but Dr. Chapman's example might be followed discreetly by some Americans who want to get acquainted with their own country. On bicycles, they would be able to take to rural roads and by-ways and to see bits of the American scene yet uncluttered with the commercial developments of the more traveled routes.

"Cash and carry" might also be a good idea for some of the folks who have trouble in "keeping up with the Joneses."

Man And Metal

HITLER has conquered Poland, a nation of 30,000,000 brave people, in three weeks. But has he thereby proved himself another Napoleon?

"Nonsense!" replies General Hugh S. Johnson. "This was the first try-out of a well-equipped, mechanized, motorized, armored army against unprotected human bodies."

It is clear that, from now on, war is going to require a tremendous lot of machinery, along with the steel and explosives.

THE OLD OAKEN BUCKETS

Listen, World!

Why Is a Dictator?

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

THERE'S no sane reason why America should take part in that European nightmare. But there are plenty of reasons why each one of us should thing about that nightmare. . . study its causes. . .see how they apply to our private as well as our public lives. For—don't fool yourself!—they DO apply! Whenever you see a person or a people unfairly driven, brutally dominated, the reason is always the same.

Dictators don't "just happen."

They don't achieve their vicious power by their own strength or shrewdness.

THEY OCCUR BECAUSE THE OTHER FELLOW LETS 'EM.

We Americans think we're free. We've been sure of that freedom ever since we broke away from England. "Never again," we boasted, "could a tyrant plant his foot on our necks!" Germany said that, too, after the World war was over, after the Kaiser had fled to Holland and the Revolution had been crushed. They were poor, hungry, in rags, but they were free. AND THEY WOULD STAY FREE!

So the Germans boasted, flinging their bitter defiance in the face of the world. So they continued to boast, year after year. But now what's happened? No German dare call his soul his own. Germany is involved in the cruelest war and dominated by the most ruthless dictatorship mankind has known. The average German does not know how that war happened. He may not even ask . . . death is the penalty for those who dare to listen to a foreign broadcast or read foreign propaganda. Germany is under Hitler's heel. Why?

BECAUSE THE GERMAN PEOPLE PUT THEIR NECKS UNDER THAT HEEL.

No, they didn't pass a bill or issue a proclamation to that effect. Most of them had never heard of Hitler — would have sneered scornfully if anyone had warned them against him. They were too busy worrying over themselves to bother about a little painter with a mad plan. The World war had left them on a bad spot. They didn't know where they were going or how they'd get there. They had no will of their own — no leader — no program. They were just hanging around, waiting for something to turn up. And something did. Hitler turned up:

Germany wasn't conquered by a Dictator—it was vanquished by its own apathy.

WHILE THE GERMANS WAITED AND WONDERED, HITLER AND HIS HOODLUMS WORMED THEIR WAY IN. AND TODAY HE AND HIS GANG RUN GERMANY.

There's nothing unusual in that. It happens to all persons—or people—who do not watch their step and safeguard their own rights.

IF YOU DON'T MIND YOUR OWN BUSINESS, SOMEONE ELSE WILL! AND YOU'LL HAVE NO ONE TO THANK BUT YOURSELF FOR YOUR BAD LUCK.

SELF PRESERVATION, there's the first law of life, spiritual as well as physical. God gave you your makings—and the wit to promote them and protect them from abuse. That's your No. 1 job. And it's nobody's fault but your own if the Other Fellow catches you loafing on that job and turns your neglect to his advantage. Brotherly Love and Mutual Trust are perfectly ducky theories, but as a program for practical performance they're a lot of eyewash.

Why's a Dictator?

Why's a Nagging Parent, a Meddlesome Mate, a Parasitic Relative, an Unreliable Friend, an Unfair Boss?

BECAUSE YOU LET THEM! HITLER ISN'T A GERMAN PHENOMENON . . . THERE'S A HITLER READY TO TAKE OVER IN EVERY LIFE! AND IT'S UP TO YOU TO KEEP HIM OUT—OR ELSE . . .

Drugs Must Do All They Claim.

—By DR. CLENDENING

FROM now on, if you buy a solution that says it will kill germs, it must kill germs. And if you buy a mouth wash or a nose spray that kills germs "in two minutes," it must do that (or it must have an inhibitory effect on prolonged contact). So says Uncle Sam's new Federal Food, Drug and Cosmetic Law, which also makes several improvements over the old law in respect to labeling drugs.

It requires that the active ingredients must be declared on the label, as well as the proportion or quantity of certain potent drugs. For instance, your fat reducer, which is "harmless," must show on the label whether it contains thyroid extract or dintrophenol, and how much.

Omission of a material fact makes a label false. Labels must even declare the existence, if any, of a difference of opinion among qualified scientists.

Appear on Label.

Certain drugs must appear on the label whether active in the mixture or not: bromides, acetanilid, phenacetin, amidopyrine, atropine, mercury, thyroid, hyoscine or hyocyamine.

Warnings against probable misuse must also appear. The law enjoins the statement, "Warning—may be habit-forming," when certain drugs are in the container, including barbituric acid (veronal), cannibis, chloral, cocaine, codeine, morphine, marihuana, paraldehyde, peyote (mescal).

Of course, most of these drugs cannot be sold without a doctor's prescription. In many, but not all, states the barbiturates cannot be sold. But vendors often have a way of getting around this. An asthma spray may contain cocaine. The asthma victim writes in for a bottle of the "cure." A doctor employed by the firm writes a prescription and the medicine is sent out.

The enforcement proceedings of the new bill strengthen the government's hand mightily. Under the old law, the government could seize products that were adulterated, fraudulently labeled or filthy—but not because they were dangerous.

Had to Prove Intent.

There was a joker in the old law that stated that the government had to prove that false claims to curative effect were made by the manufacturer with wilful intent. It is very difficult to prove what a quack's intent is.

Now, if a common weed is sold as a "cure" for diabetes, or some salts as a slenderizer, it can be stopped without bothering about the mental process of the vendor.

Cosmetics which are dangerous can be banned. This part of the law has been in effect for a year. Eighty-one shipments of poisonous cosmetics have been seized, 30 of which involved an eyelash dye which has caused blindness. The manufacturers were prosecuted, convicted and fined in 13 counts involving fines of $100 each, but the court announced that on payment of $200 the judgment would be satisfied.

I understand that the Ohio woman who was blinded by eyelash dye has spent over $10,000 on hospital expenses. The doctors I am proud to say, have never charged her anything.

Gain In Flying Safety.

It has not been many months since there was national concern over the increase in the number of fatalities experienced in commercial aviation in this country. A succession of disastrous accidents occurring to planes flying regular passenger schedules threatened to mar the safety record of the air lines and to discourage travel by air on the part of many.

Because of this, the recent announcement of the Civil Aeronautics authority showing that up to Sept. 17 there had been no loss of life on American air lines within six months is both significant and gratifying.

Air travel is becoming more and more of a commonplace. Both oceans now are spanned with regular schedules and it is possible to get almost anywhere in the country today by plane, at least to the large centers. The six-months no-fatality record is one more encouraging aspect of this fact.—Columbus Dispatch.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—One of the most bewildered men in New York today is Hughes Mearns, professor of psychology at New York university, who once wrote a simple quatrain and after 29 years saw it develop into singing America's current wacky song favorite — "The Little Man Who Wasn't There."

During its historic development, Tin Pan Alley has taken its music material from many sources and quite often the origin of a song has been so remote from the nerve center of music that final production is cause for wonderment. Such is the case with "Little Man, etc.," now heard everywhere. Larry Clinton and Glenn Miller, two pretty good boys, have recorded it.

It was Clinton who cleared up the origin of the Mearns quatrain for this bemused correspondent. Back in 1910 Mearns wrote it for a Harvard university Hasty Pudding club production, and it ran along this vein:

"Yesterday I saw upon the stair
A little man who wasn't there.
He wasn't there again today,
Oh how I wish he'd go away."

This bit of classic absurdum became campus tradition.

A few weeks ago two other Harvard graduates, Bernard Hanighen and Harold Adamson, began tinkering with a melody to fit the words, which persisted in running through their imagination, and in this manner a very zany number has found its way to the always unpredictable public.

Meanwhile Mearns, the professor of psychology, sits in a class room at New York university and shakes his head. Even the psychology books, which he knows by heart, do not give the answer.

THERE once lived a Czechoslovakian—and he may still be living, though he remains unheard from and is, or was, somewhere in Europe—with the jawbreaking handle of Jaromir Vejvoda. He came from that part of Central Europe where polkas are the custom rather than a novelty, and so four or five years ago he composed himself a tune and finally got it played by an obscure brass band (no one would publish it), which gave the piece a little publicity, and, by a miracle, someone finally bought it for a few pennies.

This is the same merry shout which since has been recorded by Victor under a series of titles, namely, "The Jelly Roll Polka," the "Pretzel," etc., and which finally was arranged, with appropriate lyrics, and released under the title of "Beer Barrel Polka."

And so the obscure Mr. Vejvoda has come belatedly into recognition though as yet no one knows how he has taken his success. As previously noted, he was a Czech, and you know where the Czechs are today.

How It Started

To Win One's Spurs.

To-day, when you gain recognition, when the world thinks you're good, it has its own ways of saying so.

It does not present you with spurs; but that is how the metaphor started.

We have the expression from the days when noteworthy accomplishments,—bravery on the field of battle, or other special service to one's country—were rewarded with knighthood.

The recipient of this rank became "Sir," and with the words "I dub thee Knight," the sovereign presented to his honored subject the emblem symbolizing his admission to a privileged class,—a pair of gilded spurs.

WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Maury Maverick is a great favorite with the president, but the outspoken mayor of San Antonio's visit the other day was not what could be called a smash hit.

Maverick deplored the European conflict and expressed the hope that the United States would not be drawn into war.

"Our people are against getting involved in that mess, Mr. President," he said forcefully.

"I know that, Maury," replied Roosevelt. "And so am I. I can assure you that we are doing everything in our power to keep out of it."

"I'm glad to hear that," continued Maverick. "You know I was in the last war and got pretty badly shot up. I came out of it alive, but I've got a boy, and I figure by the law of averages that if we get into another war he may be killed. And I don't want my son killed."

"Neither do other parents want their sons killed," replied Roosevelt. "You mustn't forget that I, too, have sons."

"I realize that, Mr. President," replied Maverick, and then added with a mischievous grin. "Some people I know would strongly favor, if we do go to war, that your boy Elliott should be the first one called."

The president was not amused. He took a deep puff of his cigaret and then said sternly, "Oh, Elliott is not so bad. I know he is inclined to talk too much at times, but he is a good boy. None of us is perfect."

"Well, I like Jimmy best," said Maverick.

Note—Still rankling Maverick is the fact that during his bitter fight for re-election to the house in 1938, Elliott secretly invited the campaign manager of Maverick's successful opponent on the president's special train through Texas. Maverick, who was also on the train at Roosevelt's invitation, raised such a ruckus over Elliott's action that the rival manager was kept under wraps.

White House Lowdown.

THE real inside on the president's message to congress was that his advocacy of cash-and-carry was a second thought. What he privately favored was repeal of the entire neutrality act and a returned to old-fashioned international law.

He proposed this guardedly at his conference with congressional and Republican leaders. But with two exceptions, they were cold to the idea and he dropped it.

Senate foreign relations committee chairman, Key Pittman bluntly declared that the scheme wouldn't muster five votes in the committee. Senator James Byrnes, astute South Carolinian with a keen knowledge of senate sentiment, agreed. He declared that any move for complete repeal would scare both the country and the senate, strongly counseled a compromise course.

"The fight will be tough enough anyway," Byrnes said. "I wouldn't add to the difficulties facing us by asking too much."

The two exceptions were most significant. They were Vice President Garner, who fought Roosevelt to a standstill last session on domestic policies, and Senator Warren R. Austin of Vermont, Republican whip, who is probably the most experienced man on foreign affairs in congress through his service as a member of the U. S. court in China plus extensive legal work in Canada.

Garner stressed two points: first, that the Constitution vests sole administration of foreign policy in the president; second, that the country has confidence in Roosevelt.

"The people have confidence in the president and the way he is conducting the foreign affairs of the country," Garner declared. "They believe in him and think he has done the right things."

Austin explained that he favored wiping out the neutrality act and returning to international law, on the ground that this would give congress and the president freedom of action to enact such legislation to keep the country out of war as European developments make necessary.

Roosevelt made a forceful plea for his plan, citing historical instances to support his arguments. But in the end he left the matter in the hands of the congressional group.

"Of course, it is up to congress to decide what should be done," he said.

Cabot's Quandary.

ILLUSTRATIVE of the uncertainty gripping numerous senators on the embargo issue is the remarkable performance of Massachusetts' handsome young Senator Henry Cabot Lodge.

Two years ago, when the neutrality act was being debated, he voted against both cash-and-carry and an arms embargo. But when Roosevelt issued his call for the special session, Mike Hennessy, ace political reporter of the Boston Herald and an old friend, both of Lodge and his famous grandfather, called on young Lodge and got an interview announcing his opposition to lifting the embargo.

The story was printed in the Herald under Mike's byline. Whereupon Lodge next day issued a statement to another paper denying the first statement and declaring in favor of cash-and-carry.

Not satisfied with three switches, the young senator turned up on the first day of congress at the strategy meeting of isolationist senators who plan to fight Roosevelt to the last ditch.

Whistling Woodchuck

(A FARMER'S DIARY)

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

FOR the past four weeks I have made periodic visits down along a woodland bank near the eastern border of our farm. Here, beneath the rooty soil of a leaning maple, lives a very interesting family of wild folk, a clan of woodchucks. From the maple as a center, I counted ten different well-worn trails. Seven led eastward, down through the fertile draw, where clover and long lush blue grass grow in great abundance. Even in the moist, yielding soil where earlier in the summer a little brook meandered through, I saw the half-grown youngsters tracks imprinted in the mud. One trail led down the hollow, thirty steps, another northward twenty-five. They differed from rabbit trails; were wider and tramped more solidly, and none were continuous little highways.

Often, when the wind was right, I would hide behind a tree thirty feet away and peep cautiously about to see just how Daddy Groundhog increased the height of his lookout. About 6 o'clock one morning my patience was rewarded by seeing him poke his head above the surface of the raise. His cheeks were pouched out as though he had the mumps. He emptied out his burden and leveled it with his forepaws. He rolled a good-sized pebble from the mound in my direction.

Last evening about 5 I walked that way again, as stealthily as before. I sat there half an hour watching a noisy jay gather some fallen acorns and bury them in the grassy turf. I was amazed how wickedly he made the dark, cool woods dirt fly.

But suddenly I was diverted from my absorbing interest in the bird by low, flat, hollow whistling at intervals. I scanned the landscape all around, and only by accident, farther to the south, upon a dry old stump I caught sight of a groundhog standing erect upon his haunches, as straight and motionless as a pillar. His face was turned in my direction. Slowly the fur beneath his chin began to move up and down, and when his mouth grew open slightly I heard that whistling sound again. B'rer Groundhog whistling! I never heard a nature lover tell such a story, or knew a nature magazine to proclaim this lowly creature a vocalist, but this one actually stood upon a stump and gave expression to his inner feelings.

CRIME TEARS ON + + + + +

By CAROLYN WELLS

(Copyright, 1939)

CHAPTER XIV

"All right, and I ought to have found it anyway."

"Does it presuppose a criminal with a fund of medical knowledge?"

"Not quite that," Fenn said; "but a knowledge of anatomy would be necessary."

They went downstairs, and found the group as they had left them.

As gently as possible, Fenn told them of the discovery that had been made and the inevitable conclusion that Harley Madison had been killed while he slept.

A stunned silence followed the news, and then Craig went over and sat by his aunt. "Aunt Cornelia," he said, "this awful blow falls the hardest upon you. I want you to know that my life is dedicated to yours, and I shall watch over you as carefully as Uncle Harley did."

Cornelia clasped his hand, and said, in firm, clear tones: "This crime shall be avenged. Mr. Stone, will you take the case?"

When Assistant District Attorney Sutton arrived at Silver Hill, Wilkins showed him into a reception room.

"I would like to see Miss Madison, if convenient," Sutton said. "And also Doctor Fenn, if he is still here."

Fenn came first, and welcomed his colleague.

"Widespreading case," he said, in low tones. "And ramifications and minor mysteries — in fact, baffling."

* * *

Cornelia came then, and Fenn introduced Sutton and the three sat down.

"We must waste no time," Sutton said, "Miss Madison, do you feel equal to the ordeal of my preliminary questioning, or would you prefer not to be present, and send one or both of your nephews?"

"No," Cornelia told him, "my personal feelings are not to be considered in the work we have before us. My grief and sorrow at my loss, only time can help; but I want above all things, justice, and if you can find the murderer of my brother and bring him to justice, I shall feel that I have done my duty."

"I understand you have Mr. Stone with you. He will be a powerful assistant."

"What do you do first, Mr. Sutton? I am entirely unversed in these matters?"

"I think first of all I should like to call your family and make some general inquiries, and after that, question this one or that one alone."

"Very well, then we must go to a larger room. I supposed you would first find out how anybody could get into my brother's room. I know this house so well, you see, and I know nobody could get in when his hall door was locked."

"A sealed room used to be a great mystery, Miss Madison, but I think Mr. Stone will tell you, that they usually give up their secrets to him. You have guests?"

"Only one, at this moment. Three left this morning—"

"They should not have been allowed to go!"

"I knew no reason to detain them. You cannot possibly suspect any of my family or guests—or my servants!"

"It is too soon to suspect anybody yet. Let us get the people together."

They went to the livingroom, where they found Fleming Stone and the two Madison men, also Everett Ames.

Anita was there, too, and Miss Madison said:

"I have another house guest, Miss Yvette Verne. But she has gone to New York on some errands and will be back later."

"Looking toward a possible motive," Sutton began, "can any of you suggest some one who would have gained financially by Mr. Madison's death?"

As no one else spoke, Ames answered this question.

"On the contrary, Mr. Sutton. Last night before he died, Mr. Madison destroyed his will, meaning to make a new one this morning. Unless his lawyer has a valid will, of some past date, Mr. Madison died intestate. This, I may say, must remove suspicion from the men in the village, who were unfriendly toward him, but for personal reasons."

"Those men must be taken into consideration, of course. But did they know that Mr. Madison had destroyed his will? Might they not have thought that his death would result in their getting a large sum of money at once?"

"That's so. They couldn't have known about his tearing up his will last night. But that doesn't let them all out, for, as I was Mr. Madison's confidential secretary, I know that one or two of them had s e r i o u s ill-feeling against him, for reasons outside of money matters."

"Those things will be taken up in due course. I want a brief account of last evening's doings. Perhaps you will give it to me, Mrs. Boyce?"

"Me!" Anita fluttered her pretty hands and looked distracted. "Oh, I don't believe I can."

"Try, anyway."

"Oh, well—all right," Anita preened and smiled, until Cornelia wanted to spank her. "Well, you see, we were all in this room—this very room, and Harley—poor, dear Harley!" she paused to dab at her eyes with a large chiffon handkerchief. "Harley, Mr. Madison, you know, stood up, and told us he was engaged to Miss Verne.—"

"Begin farther back," Sutton interrupted, looking annoyed. "Who were in the party?"

"Why, all of us; Miss Madison, and Craig and Tom, and Mr. Ames. They all live here. Then, the guests were Mr. and Mrs. George Lee and Mr. Gifford Hale. And Miss Verne, the film star, and me—that's all."

"And then Mr. Madison announced his engagement?"

"Yes; and we were all so surprised! I mean, most of us were. Maybe some knew it before. But me! you could have knocked me down with a feather! Well, it was lovely; everybody was so pleased and glad, and Miss Madison went and brought the Madison pearl necklace and hung it round Yvette's neck, and we drank their health, and we danced, and everything!"

"And what time did you go to bed?"

"I haven't the least idea. I went up when the Lees did."

"Who can tell me at about what time the party broke up?"

"I guess I can," offered Craig. "It wasn't so very late. About one o'clock Aunt Cornelia said Yvette was getting tired, and she was going to take her to bed. So they went upstairs then, and soon after, I remember Laura Lee said they would go, and she and her husband followed up. Us fellows trailed along after that, and Uncle Harley was the last one. I said good night to him, and left him finishing a cigar. He was sitting in that big easy chair, and looked as happy as could be. I thought maybe he wanted to think things over, so I didn't stay and talk, but went along to bed."

"Do you know what time your uncle went upstairs?"

"I do. His room is next to mine, and I heard him in there, not much later. He didn't stay down very long, but as to the time, I've no idea."

"Say Miss Madison went upstairs at one o'clock, then do you think all the others would have been up by half-past one?"

"Why, yes, I should say so. Maybe a bit later, but by quarter of two, anyhow."

"These things are of utmost importance. Now, will each of you say exactly what you did on going upstairs? Miss Madison?"

"I went up with Miss Verne," Cornelia said, "and we paused a moment before she opened her door. I was telling her how glad I was that my brother was so happy, and she looked so lovely, I hated to leave her. I kissed her good night, and went to my own room. I went right to bed and right to sleep, for what with the excitement and all, I was very tired."

"You didn't hear your brother come up?"

"Oh, no. His room is at the other end of the house."

Sutton spoke next to Craig.

"You are older, Mr. Madison, than your cousin, are you not?"

"Yes, three years older."

"Did you hear any noise in the night?"

"Not a sound. I sleep very soundly, and too, this old house is well built, and the walls and floors are so think, sounds are seldom heard. Is it known at what time my uncle was—attacked?"

"The doctors say, between three and four o'clock this morning. But that is not a positive statement."

"I heard no sounds of any sort, until I awoke this morning."

"Mr. Sheldon?"

Tom Sheldon's story was almost the same as Craig's. His room was beyond Craig's, and he too, slept soundly through the small hours.

Sutton did not put these questions to Anita. He was sure if she knew anything about the circumstances, she would broadcast the knowledge, without being requested.

Sutton next called on Everett Ames.

"As to last evening, Mr. Ames," he began, "you went upstairs about the time Mr. Madison and Mr. Sheldon did?"

"Yes, I walked up with Tom, but we didn't stop in the hall. We went to our rooms at once. My room is on the other side of the hall, it's a long cross-hall, and I got to bed as quickly as I could, for I knew I'd have a lot of work to do today, letters to be written, and plans to be made, for I knew Mr. Madison was going to make a new will, and then there was the whole matter of the village improvement, and what was going to happen to that. As it is, I have plenty of unfinished work and if you can excuse me—"

"Yes, yes, go along, Mr. Ames. If I want you further I'll let you know. Now I'd like to see the man who first saw Mr. Madison this morning."

Elkanah was summoned, and close behind him, walked Hetty, his wife. She half expected to be sent away, but Sutton made no objection to her presence. The pair sat down stiffly, in two straight chairs.

Sutton addressed Elkanah first, saying;

"When did you last see Mr. Madison alive?"

Elkanah stared. The question was so different from what he had expected, it fair took his breath away. He opened his mouth two or three times, but shut it each time, without a sound. Nonchalantly, Hetty answered for him.

"He's kinda dumb sir," she said, apologetically; "he seen Mr. Madison last, when he was serving refreshments in here, sir, right after Mr. Madison having told he was betokened to the stage lady."

"Miss Verne?"

"Yes, sir. They had champagne and them extra fancy sangwidges, which that Wilkins is a dabster at makin' if there ever was one!"

"Thank you, Mrs. Garson. Be quiet, now, while I talk to your husband."

Hetty was nobody's fool, and she realized she had spoken out of turn. Her cheeks reddened, she stared at one face after another, until Cornelia caught her eye. Then Cornelia shook her head, with a special shake that Hetty well understood, and immediately obeyed.

"Now, Mr. Garson, why did you get into Mr. Madison's room, by means of a ladder? Was there no way to get in otherwise?"

ASHLAND — Because of the delay in the check of returns at Columbus, deadline for the collection of personal taxes, originally set for Sept. 20, has been moved up to Oct. 20, it was announced here by Karl K. Kick, Ashland county treasurer.

THEATERS

TEMPERATURES last week in Hollywood were 100 in the shade and up, mostly up, and the movie business almost went to pot. Actually it cost studies thousands of dollars in lost time, not only for postponed work but the extra time it took to keep make-ups in camera order. They'd melt after a few minutes of work. On the "Green Hell" set, Joan Bennett sat with an ice pack on her head between shots. Douglas Fairbanks changed shirts before every "take" and the cameraman worried about his film getting too hot. Baby Sandy had it on his adult contemporaries, for he (or rather "she") worked with only a diaper for a costume.

Five Little Peppers.

Remember "Five Little Peppers and How They Grew"? This story, beloved by youngsters everywhere, has been transferred to the screen, with the same title and a cast of talented youngsters, headed by Edith Fellows. The Five Little Peppers, all got the measles at the same time while the eldest sister was taking care of them in the mother's absence. Adult roles are played by Dorothy Peterson and Clarence Kolb. The picture is booked for the Madison Wednesday and Thursday, with "The Adventures of Sherlock Holmes" as a second attraction.

Are Women Cats?

There are a lot of innovations in "The Women"—the greatest of which is the complete absence of men in the cast—and one of these is the manner in which the cast of major characters is introduced. First the player's name and a picture of the animal she typifies, and then the name of the role she plays. Norma Shearer plays a lamb; Rosalind Russell symbolizes a cat; Joan Crawford a jungle cat; Paulette Goddard is represented by a fox; Phyllis Povah by a nice, cud-chewing cow, and Margery Main by a jackass. And throughout the story, they live up to their roles. The picture remains at the Ohio through Thursday.

"Mr. Chips" Returns.

For its Wednesday and Thursday bill the Ritz will present James Hilton's "Good Bye, Mr. Chips," a screen sensation of the summer. The instructor at a boys' school who never really understands boys or makes friends until in middle life he falls in love with a lovely girl and marries her. Robert Donat and Greer Garson are cast in the leading roles. Also on the bill will be "Grand Jury Secrets" with John Howard and Gail Patrick.

East and West Meet.

What happens when East meets West has been told many times, but probably never more romantically than in Goldwyn's production "The Cowboy and The Lady," which is a Majestic theater attraction. Gary Cooper represents the West and Merle Oberon the East, and they do meet, Kipling to the contrary, and fall in love and, presumably, live happily ever after. A modern hospital and the human interest story of its personnel are depicted in "Calling Dr. Kildare," with Lew Ayers and Lionel Barrymore.

Paris Objective.

"Good Girls Go to Paris" is the intriguing title of the Park's feature which stars Joan Blondell and Melvin Douglas, and has Walter Connolly, Alan Curtis and Joan Perry. A pert little waitress determines to go to Paris by fair means or foul and finally decides on the "foul." But her blackmailing schemes turn out to be Girl Scout deeds and as a reward for being good, she gets the trip anyway. "Stunt Pilot," Tailspin Tommy episode, is also shown.

To Check Constipation Get at Its Cause!

If constipation has you down so you feel heavy, tired and dopey, it's time you did something about it. And something more than just taking a physic! You should get at the cause of the trouble.

If you eat the super-refined food most people eat, the chances are the difficulty is simple—you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean heavy food. It's a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines.

If this common form of constipation is your trouble, eat Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast every day and drink plenty of water. All-Bran isn't a medicine—it's a crunchy, toasted, nutritious cereal. And it will help you not only to get regular but to keep regular, day after day. Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

A Column of Comment On National and World Affairs Appearing Daily In

The Mansfield News-Journal

Let's Look at the Record:

ON JULY 26

Biggest news of the entire World War to date has been the Russian invasion of Poland. A month ago most observers considered this fantastic and impossible. But on JULY 26 Pearson and Allen, describing the inside negotiations between Stalin and Hitler and predicting an alliance between the two, said: "The final bait put before Stalin was that if he played ball with Hitler, Poland would be divided between Germany and Russia. Germany would take the Corridor and Western Poland. Central Poland would become a sort of Luxembourg, while eastern Poland, with the Ukraine, would go to Russia. Hitler even promised the Baltic States to Stalin.

ON SEPT. 1

Pearson and Allen continued to keep their readers abreast of this sensational prediction, and on SEPTEMBER 1 gave a confidential report on Hitler's conversation with the British Ambassador, Sir Neville Henderson, in which he told Henderson that "he had made an agreement with Stalin to carve up Poland," giving further details.

ON SEPT 4

The Merry-Go-Round reported that "part of the Soviet-Nazi deal is the sending of 20 Russian divisions against Poland." This date, September 4, was at a time when many newspaper observers still believed any Russian invasion of Poland out of the question and even before any mobilization of Russian troops was reported. The actual invasion took place on September 16.

ON SEPT. 4 — Rivalling the Russian invasion of Poland as the news sensation of the week was the signing of a Japanese-Russian truce on September 15. On this, the Merry-Go-Round had kept its readers informed ten days in advance, even at a time when other newspapermen were cabling word from Tokyo that the Japanese Government was amazed at the Stalin-Hitler alliance. On SEPTEMBER 4 Pearson and Allen reported a Soviet deal which would give Japan a free hand in China, in return for which Japan would bury her old hatchet with Russia and give the Soviet a chance to concentrate on Poland."

ON AUG. 25 — The Merry-Go-Round gave a pretty good indication as to what might develop in Poland once Germany attacked. The column told how Hitler had built a series of five-lane highways converging upon the Polish border from every direction and forming a means "by which German troops moving with trucks can vary the attack with lightning speed. Meanwhile the Poles, transporting troops chiefly by rail, are far less mobile. By the time they have moved their forces up to a threatened German attack, the Germans probably will be attacking on an entirely different border." This, it will be recalled, is almost exactly what happened.

ON MAY 12 — It is also interesting to note that on MAY 12 the Merry-Go-Round reported: "You can mark it down as certain that Hitler is sure to take Danzig, the exact date is the only thing that remains uncertain."

ON AUG. 22

The Merry-Go-Round gave a behind-the-scenes picture of conditions in Italy, reporting a difference of opinion between Mussolini and the King of Italy regarding support for Hitler. The column stated that "the King and the Crown Prince . . . want no war. It is interesting that on the day following, President Roosevelt addressed his peace proposal to King Emmanuel, ignoring Mussolini.

ON SEPT. 12

On SEPTEMBER 12 Pearson and Allen told of a confidential conversation between Sir Ronald Lindsay, retiring British Ambassador, and President Roosevelt, in which the latter advised the British Government not to use bankers as its agent during the war. It was hinted that this advice was aimed at J. P. Morgan.

ON APR. 23

The Merry-Go-Round reported the detailed plans of the British General Staff for the evacuation of London, including the transfer of 1,500,000 children from the city.

You, Too, Have Made BIG PLANS For a Small Home

Sure, you've made plans for that house you hope to live in . . . pretty important plans, too, because they're all wrapped up with the two of you and the children and the happiness you're looking forward to. Sometimes it seems as if you can hardly wait until the day comes along when you can build.

Well, that day has come along and you CAN build now—with the money you spend for rent. That's because paying for a house isn't any more expensive than renting these days, thanks to new financing plans and the new low cost of building materials.

Waiting for your ship to come in before you build has gone out of style this year with the development of the new low cost houses that are practical in design, easy to pay for, inexpensive to maintain, and economical to run.

You can thank the lumber companies, the brick and cement people, the paint manufacturers, banks, government agencies and all the others for making it possible for almost anyone with a moderate income to own a home of his own. They've all cooperated to bring building costs to a new low and offer the greatest bargain in homes that has ever been offered.

But don't take all this without first confirming the information. Check the firms listed below on this page. Ask your friends who have built homes this year. Ask others who have had experience in home building—they'll tell you this: 1939 is the year to build homes for real values!

So if that dream home has been slumbering in the back of your mind for some time or is lying on paper somewhere in a desk drawer, haul out your big plans and take them to a responsible firm connected with the building industry—they'll be glad to tell you how you can make the most of your building dollar in 1939.

Turn These Plans Into Reality In 1939 . . . The Bargain Year For Home Builders

New low cost of building materials, the low labor charge and the plus value you get in a modern home, coupled with the cooperation you can get for the asking from firms and individuals connected with the building industry today . . . puts the turning of your dreams for a home into reality directly up to you. Today you can afford that home you'd always hoped for, paying for it out of income just like rent—except you'll own the house in 18 to 25 years!

REPORT SHOWS STIMULUS GIVEN LOW COST HOME

$5,530 Figured as Average Appraised Value of 1938 FHA Mortgages.

The tremendous stimulus afforded the construction of small homes by the Federal Housing Administration program is portrayed in the fifth annual report of that agency.

The report shows that more than two-fifths of the new single-family homes which the Federal Housing Administration accepted for insurance in 1938 were valued at less than $5,000, more than four-fifths at less than $7,000, and only 2 per cent at $12,000 or more.

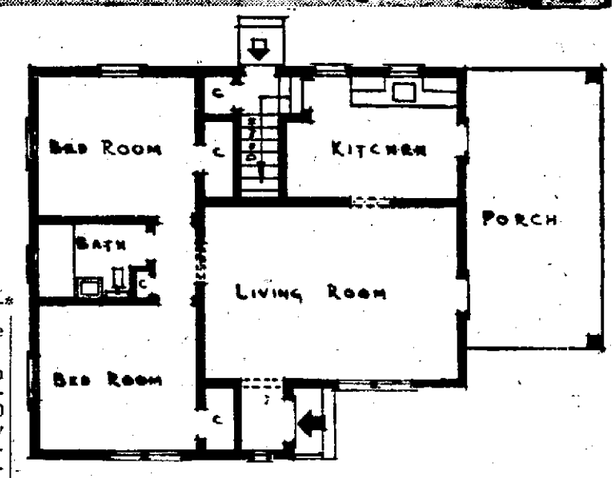
In the case of existing homes on which mortgages were accepted for insurance, almost three-fifths were valued at less than $5,000, but proportionately more existing than new homes were valued at more than $10,000. New homes are defined as those constructed under FHA inspection or not more than a year old at the time of acceptance of the application for mortgage insurance.

The average FHA appraised value of new single-family homes in 1938 was $5,530, the report revealed, and the average valuation has declined steadily since 1935, when it was about $6,450, or $920 higher. In interpreting this sharp decline, the report pointed out that the number of rooms also declined, that these figures represent the FHA valuation rather than the actual cost of construction, and that the FHA has encouraged construction of small homes by offering a smaller down payment, a higher loan-to-value ratio, and a longer mortgage term.

For existing homes, the drop in average Federal Housing Administration valuation of about $220 was not so great as that for new construction. In 1938 the average Federal Housing Administration valuation of existing homes was $5,069.

Model Home for Minimum Means

This small home, containing two bedrooms, living room and kitchen, illustrates how comfortable living quarters may be obtained in the minimum cost field. Assigned a value of $4,250 by the Federal Housing Administration, the home was built in Iowa with a mortgage of $3,800 insured by FHA. Monthly payments on this attractive house amount to $23.46, exclusive of local taxes and hazard insurance.



BANK CREATES WIDE INTEREST BY CUTTING FHA LOAN RATES

Announcement by the Bowery Savings Bank of New York City that it would make Federal Housing Administration insured-mortgage loans at 4¼ per cent, instead of the maximum interest rate of 5 per cent, quickened response from borrowers and produced a deluge of nation-wide comment, indicating that "throughout the country mortgage news is real news and live news," officers of the bank write in the current issue of the Insured Mortgage Portfolio, official FHA publication.

The Bowery Savings Bank, largest savings bank in the United States, is one of a number of lending institutions in various cities of the country which are making FHA-insured mortgage loans for buying or building homes or refinancing existing debts at interest rates below the 5 per cent maximum set by the FHA as the uniform top rate permissible on home loans which it insures.

"When the Bowery Savings Bank reduced it rate on Federal Housing Administration insured-mortgage loans from 5 per cent to 4¼ per cent, early in March, we expected quickened interest from borrowers in our immediate territory, and we got it," F. C. Smith, mortgage officer, and R. W. Sparks, vice president of the bank, write. "We also received a deluge of nation-wide comment which quickly proved to us how closely the country at large is following trends in home-financing costs.

"Closely following this publicity, we received hundreds of requests for additional information about 4¼ per cent FHA-insured loans, some of them as far away as Texas and California. We mention this out-of-town reaction to the new interest rate because if thousands of persons were not thinking of building, buying, and financing homes, newspapers would not devote so much space to a change of rate by a single lending institution.

"We are hopeful that, in addition to bringing a considerable saving in interest cost to the home owner, we would be able to make enough loans to meet our entire mortgage-invetment needs. A lower interest rate, we reasoned, would bring us good will from men and women who wishes homes of their own, would increase home-construction activity, would promote building-trades employment, and would show the public that the Bowery was vitally interested in home ownership and was eager to make home financing just as easy as possible for the man and woman of moderate means.

COLOR IMPROVES HOME INTERIOR

Modern convenience and comfort can be brought into every room of the old house of yesterday, Federal Housing Administration officials say.

Low Cost Fuel a Requirement In Small Residences

The use of an inexpensive fuel is always desirable, Federal Housing Administration officials declare, but it should be regarded as an absolute requirement where minimum-cost homes are being considered.

All available fuels and their relative costs should be considered in relation to the various types of heating equipment available. The storage facilities required for each type of fuel must be considered, as they may be an important factor in design of the structure.

Conceit often gets a small man into a large hole.
